Two States Hit Hard By Storms Rain, Hail, Wind Lash N. Y., Conn.

NEW YORK (AP)—Heavy rain, hail and wind up to 80 miles an hour lashed sections of New York and Connecticut Tuesday. One death was reported.

The storms concentrated their fury on Long Island Sound, Nassau County and the central part of Westchester County in New York. The City of Greenwich was hardest hit in Connecticut.

Nassau Loses Power

More than half an inch of rain pelted Nassau County on Long Island where close to 65,000 homes were without power shortly after the storms hit, and more than 35,000 still lacked it hours later. Roads were blocked by uprooted trees, and scores of store windows were shattered.

Many sailboats were overturned on Long Island Sound, but the Coast Guard reported no drownings. Five persons on two capsize boats were rescued by a police launch in Manhasset Bay. One man was snatched from the water at Port Washington.

Six light planes were flipped over by high winds at Westchester County Airport.

In Greenwich, the storm raged for 15 minutes, doing most of its damage in residential areas where 500 homes were without power for a time.

Bronx Man Killed

The death attributed to the storm occurred in The Bronx, on a fringe of the storm. Edward Brady, 35, of Valley Cottage, was electrocuted when the boom of a crane he was oiling was swung against high-tension wires by the wind.

Scattered storms also struck Upstate.

In Saratoga County, lightning caused a fire that destroyed the Weaver sawmill in Milton Center. Another bolt damaged a home in Burnt Hills.

William Weaver, owner of the mill, estimated his loss at $75,000. Leonard Salisbury estimated the damage to his home would total $3,000. The bolt knocked holes in the outer wall, broke the chimney and tore down plaster.

Woman Is Injured As Car Hits Tree

A Bloomington woman was injured Tuesday when the car she was driving out of a driveway at her home struck a tree, according to an investigation by Trooper Thomas Crowley of Lake Katrine State Police.

Troopers said Olive Stokes, 58, of Bloomington was taken to Kingston Hospital suffering lacerations of her face, abrasions of the knee and rib injuries.

The woman was driving along the driveway when her foot slipped off the brake pedal and struck the accelerator causing the car to proceed ahead and hit the tree.

Ski Interests, CCs, Others Oppose Restricting Forests

SARANAC LAKE, N.Y. (AP)—Ski interests, Chambers of Commerce and some conservation groups joined forces Tuesday to oppose legislation to establish restricted wilderness areas in the State Forest Preserve.

Of the 22 witnesses who testified at a hearing of the Joint Legislative Committee on Natural Resources, 12 spoke against the proposal. Six, including State Conservation Commissioner Harold G. Wilm, were for it, and four persons said they might back the plan if some changes were made.

Opponents of the wilderness proposal also outnumbered proponents at the first committee hearing at Indian Lake last Saturday.

The legislative committee, headed by Assemblyman R. Watson Pomeroy, R-Dutchess, is sponsoring the legislation to establish 16 wilderness areas on more than 900,000 acres of the Adirondacks and Catskills.

The areas, intended for hiking, camping, hunting, fishing and nature study, would be closed to automobiles and motorboats.

Thomas Cantwell of Saranac Lake, president of the State Winter Sports Council, called the proposed tracts "the land of mustn't touch."

He as well as Assemblyman William H. Stephens, R-Putnam, spoke out for development of more ski areas. Stephens, chairman of the Joint Legislative Committee on Natural Resources, said few persons want to "play at being an Indian or a pioneer in a brickett canoe."

Mountain, bird, trail and other conservation clubs were represented among the more than 200 persons who attended. The con-

New Fire Captain Named, Effner Gets Appointment

A fire department lieutenant gained a captaincy and a new fireman was named through fire board action Tuesday night.

Harry L. Sills, of 118 Hone Street, who had served as a lieutenant for more than a year, was named captain, to fill a post which had previously been filled provisionally, and John E. Effner, of 460 Delaware Avenue, was named fireman, third grade. Both appointments become effective Sept. 16.

Became Fireman in 1950

Sills began as a fireman Sept. 16, 1950 and became a lieutenant Jan. 26, 1960. He had served a short time as a temporary fireman before he was named permanently in 1950. A Kingston native, he had attended St. Mary's School and Kingston High School. In World War II he served more than five years and was with the 32nd Infantry Division. He had been employed by Western Electric Co. before joining the fire department.

Effner, also a native of the city, attended Immanuel Evangelical Lutheran School, Livingston Street, Kingston High School, Academy, Cornwall, and DeVry Technical Institute where he studied electronics. At NYMA he played basketball and lacrosse. He has recently been employed as a merchant seaman working out of New York.

Appointment of Effner followed a recent change of the department's table of organization.

Welfare Review Ordered By Rocky; Group Named

Bonn Note Due as U.S. Plans to Prod Soviets

WASHINGTON (AP)—U.S. Ambassador Llewellyn E. Thompson may seek an appointment in Moscow early next week in an effort to learn Soviet views about Berlin negotiations, diplomatic sources said today.

The aim is to get the latest line on the Kremlin approach to East-West talks before the Western Big Four foreign ministers hold their next strategy session on Berlin.

The New York Times said in a dispatch from Berlin that Adenauer expressed fear any further reverses in the Western Allies' position in Berlin could put West Germany in a neutralist mood.

The Times said Adenauer apparently believes that unless the West shows ability to defend its position in West Berlin, "a desire for some kind of an accommodation with the Russians, perhaps by fishing for a neutral role between West and East, will become stronger and possibly a factor in German politics."

Military Still Balks, Brazil Showdown Near

RIO DE JANEIRO, Brazil (AP)—Brazil's three military ministers today agreed to accept Joao Goulart as a figurehead president with a prime minister to be appointed by Congress until 1963, a government source said.

RIO DE JANEIRO, Brazil (AP)—Brazil's presidential crisis appeared headed for a showdown today as the nation's three military chiefs vetoed efforts to install leftist Joao Goulart.

Vice President Goulart broke off a three-day wait in Paris and left by air for New York apparently en route to Brazil, where the military leaders rejected a congressional committee plan to set up Goulart as a powerless head of a parliamentary form of government.

Hours of Terror Over Last of 81 Taken From Cable Cars Above Alps

CHAMONIX, France (AP)—Rescuers today completed removal of 81 sightseers who spent hours of terror in tiny cable cars stalled high above an Alpine glacier by a freak accident that killed six others.

"We've had an awful time and we're glad it's over," was the comment of a Briton numbed by a night of little leg room and freezing cold on the slopes of Mont Blanc.

Helicopters ferried the last survivors back to the warmth of their Chamonix hotels.

Some of them had spent nearly 24 hours suspended hundreds of feet in the air while workers slowly wound in the broken traction cable.

The cable was snapped at 1:10 p.m. Tuesday by a French air force jet combat plane flying low through the valley between Mont Blanc and Aiguille du Midi.

Most of the passengers seemed too fatigued by the experience to have much to say, other than that they were glad to get back alive.

Six Lost Lives

A German family of four and an Italian man and his son were killed when their cabins fell hundreds of feet after the traction cable was snapped.

They were the only casualties among the 87 persons on the cableway.

Raymond Jacquet, prefect of the Haute Savoie Department, said it was a miracle more people were not killed.

This testifies to the effectiveness of the safety measures on this spectacular cable railway linking France with Italy across the highest Alpine range," he said.

More than 100 Alpine guides, French army mountain troops, police and Red Cross workers were on hand to assist the survivors.

Schwenk Blames Mayor Radel for Stalling on Buses

Republican mayoralty candidate John J. Schwenk today accused Mayor Radel, a Democrat, of "passively promoting a city transportation emergency as Kingston's children prepare to return to school for the fall term."

Noting that a strike situation looms at Kingston Transportation Corp., Schwenk charged that Mayor Radel has "stalled and hedged since August 4th," when bus company attorney Louis Francello asked the Mayor to set up a meeting between the corporation council, the Railroad and Bus Committee of the Common Council, and the union representatives to discuss possible solutions to the impending public transportation stoppage.

Points to 20 Days

"Mr. Radel stalled on this urgent request for 20 days," Mr. Schwenk said. (Continued on Page 8, Col. 4)

Humphrey Hits Newburgh Use of Ex-MP for Welfare

WASHINGTON (AP)—The hiring of a former deputy sheriff and military policeman as a welfare worker in Newburgh has drawn criticism from Sen. Hubert Humphrey, D-Minn., and praise from City Manager Joseph Mitchell.

Humphrey said Tuesday Newburgh in a sense had become a symbol like Berlin. Referring to the hiring of the former police officer, he asked:

"Does this sound like enlightened reform? Is this the road a civilized society should be taking to deal with the problems that industrialization and urbanization leave in their wake?"

Humphrey said Newburgh's substitution of police methods for welfare methods and police personnel for trained welfare workers will solve nothing and cause only greater ills.

Red Tape, Home Rule Included

Action Stems From Newburgh Move; Gillespie Leader

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP)—Gov. Rockefeller appointed a Moreland Act Commission today to make a full-scale review of public welfare, with a view to eliminating red tape and practices that "tend to discourage self-reliance."

Rockefeller, bypassing the State Board of Social Welfare, which he appoints, said the maintenance of public confidence in public welfare was essential.

The move was another in a series of developments stemming from efforts of the City of Newburgh to cut back its welfare program with steps that have been the subject of nationwide controversy.

Carline Endorses Move

The study ordered by the Republican governor will cover home rule in operation of welfare programs, making relief recipients work, and rehabilitation of recipients.

Republican legislative leaders promptly endorsed the governor's move.

Senate Majority Leader Walter J. Mahoney said the commission could "go far in clearing away the confusion and resolving the problem that seriously threatens public confidence in our entire public assistance program."

Assembly Speaker Joseph F. Carline said in a statement endorsing Rockefeller's move, that there appears to be a need at all levels "for cutting away much of the red tape that encumbers the efficient and compassionate operation of welfare relief."

Rockefeller said welfare programs "would not be permitted to falter or lose their purpose."

The governor named S. Hazard Gillespie of New York City, a former president of the State Bar Association, to head the 11-member group.

Cites Essential Task

Rockefeller said in a statement announcing appointment of the commission:

"The maintenance of public confidence in the objectives and in the operation of the laws relating to the aid, care and support of the needy is an essential task for responsible government."

The governor said public confidence in welfare programs was necessary in the interests of taxpayers and relief recipients.

He said there was at present "a need for precise and impartial evaluation of information to dispel the misunderstanding and confusion which arise from a lack of knowledge or from misrepresentation as to the facts relating to the aid, care and support of the needy."

Other members of the commission include representatives of the business community, labor, youth and the general public.

Dutchess Jurors Visit Matteawan To Probe Escape

A Dutchess County Supreme court grand jury on Tuesday visited Matteawan State Hospital for Criminally Insane, Beacon, to investigate complaints about security at the institution.

District Attorney Raymond C. Baratta said on August 5 the grand jury would inquire into the complaints and on August 11 Supreme Court Justice John P. Donohoe directed the grand jury foreman to conduct the inquiry at the institution, contending that the hospital has "deplorable security."

That comment came after five inmates broke out of the institution, but all later were apprehended, four within a mile of the hospital and the fifth about 15 miles away in Putnam County, where Justice Donohoe resides with his family.

Dr. John F. McNeill, Hospital Director, Returned to His Office Yesterday After Being Ill Since the Inmate Escape

The jurors ate lunch in the hospital's administration building and later inspected the reception building from which the five inmates escaped July 23.

Jurors interviewed Dr. McNeill and Dr. Solon Wolf, assistant director, regarding security at the institution.

Will Wipe Out Aggressors

Soviet Holding Men Until German Treaty Conclusion

MOSCOW (AP)—Again blaming the United States and its allies for the current world tension, the Soviet government says it has agreed returning servicemen to civilian life and warned that aggressors will be wiped out "once and for all" if war starts.

A statement issued Tuesday night by the Communist party Central Committee and the Soviet Cabinet said Marshal Rodion Malinovsky, the Soviet defense minister, had been ordered to hold up demobilization of military personnel whose service would normally end this year "until the conclusion of a peace treaty with Germany."

Cut Never Announced
The number of men involved was not announced, but Soviet Premier Khrushchev said July 8 that a military cutback of 1.2 million men which began last year was being halted because of the Western attitude on Berlin. How far the cutback had gone was never announced.

Khrushchev on Aug. 7 warned that Soviet troop strength might have to be boosted even further. He accused the West of pushing the world "to a dangerous brink" in the conflict over Berlin, which stems from Khrushchev's pledge to sign a peace treaty with East Germany's Communist regime by the end of the year. The Communists contend a treaty would give East Germany control over Western access routes to West Berlin.

President Kennedy responded to the Soviet diplomatic offensive by offering to negotiate but stressing the West's intention to fight for Berlin if necessary. He called for the biggest U.S. troop buildup since the Korean war, including the right to hold military men in service.

Accusing Kennedy

The latest Soviet statement accused Kennedy of making threats reinforcing them with an arms buildup by the United States and its North Atlantic allies and presenting "something like an ultimatum," demanding essentially that we withdraw in general the question of the conclusion of a peace treaty with Germany.

"If the imperialists," said the statement, "in connection with the signing of a peace treaty with Germany, again seek to draw us into the abyss of war, we are fully resolved to put an end once and for all to the forces engendering aggression."

Keating Suggests Study of Seneca Indian Problems

WASHINGTON (AP)—Sen. Kenneth B. Keating, R-N.Y., has asked a congressional committee to visit Seneca Indians in Western New York to study relocation problems they face by construction of the proposed Kinzua, Pa., dam.

"The Seneca Indians are about to be deprived of rights guaranteed to them by a solemn treaty that their ancestors signed with the U.S. government," while the United States would risk war in Berlin to protect its treaty rights, Keating said Tuesday.

He submitted the statement to a Senate judiciary subcommittee investigating the constitutional rights of Indians. Much of the Seneca Reservation along the Allegheny River will be flooded when the dam is built. Keating said pleas for exploration of alternatives to the Kinzua dam had been of no avail.

Jones is a petty officer first class from College Park, Md., and Kennedy, a chief petty officer from Fulton, N.Y. Both are serving in the Coast Guard cutter Eagle, due back here Saturday from a two-week cadet training cruise. The Eagle is a 295-foot, 3-masted, square-rigged sailing ship.

Two Soldiers Killed As Car Hits Trailer

GENEVA, N.Y. (AP)—State Police said two soldiers stationed at the Seneca Ordnance Depot, Romulus, N.Y., were killed early today when their automobile struck a stalled tractor-trailer on Route 14, just south of the city line.

Troopers said the driver of the truck had placed flares in the road to warn traffic. The truck was stalled because of electrical trouble, the driver told them.

The names of the soldiers were withheld until next of kin could be notified.

Two Youths Face Bogus Bill Count

PLATTSBURGH, N.Y. (AP)—Two Canadians were held today on charges of possessing and passing counterfeit Canadian $10 bills.

A counter girl at a hot-dog stand near the city called sheriff's deputies Tuesday when she became suspicious of a $10 bill. The deputies arrested Gilles Morin, 21, and Alain Louiselle, 20, both of Montreal.

They were held for grand jury action after waiving examination in City Court. They were committed to Clinton County jail in lieu of $5,000 bail.

Deputies said the men had passed four bogus bills and had five others.

Auburn Receives Loan for School

WASHINGTON (AP)—Auburn, N.Y., is receiving a $72,720 interest-free loan from the Urban Renewal Administration to help it plan its Central High slum-clearance project.

The federal agency approved the loan Tuesday and said it also had earmarked $919,610 for work on the 34-acre project in anticipation of an application from housing officials in Auburn.

Substandard dwellings will be removed and others rehabilitated, the agency said. The area will be used chiefly for residential purposes.

Pilot Lands Safely At Unknown Place

WARREN, N.H. (AP)—The pilot of a single-engine Cessna 180 reported missing Tuesday night on a flight from Poughkeepsie, N.Y., to Warren, N.H., has telephoned his mother in Philadelphia he is safe, the Federal Aviation Agency said today.

The plane also carried an unidentified passenger. FAA said it had confirmed that the pilot, listed as Nelson Kusner of Philadelphia, had landed safely but it could not learn where. Electrical storms were pelting sections of New England about the time Kusner would have landed at Warren.

Keating Scores Milk Code Idea

WASHINGTON (AP)—Sen. Kenneth B. Keating, R-N.Y., today called efforts to secure congressional passage of a national milk sanitation code a "brazen attempt to sell Eastern agriculture down the river."

He said adoption of bills now before Congress to set up such a code would challenge the nation's basic milk marketing system.

It is unreasonable to maintain that a town of several hundred persons in the Southwest requires the same type of milk control as New York City, he said in a statement prepared for the House Commerce Committee which is investigating the question.

To cast aside the present system of milk marketing orders and local and state sanitation codes could invite an over-supply of milk and "totally unnecessary" subsidies, Keating said.

He said the real reason behind efforts by Midwesterners to secure passage of a national sanitation code is to sell their milk in Eastern cities at higher prices than they now receive.

Professor Cleared Of Check Offense

BUFFALO, N.Y. (AP)—A motel has dropped a fraudulent check charge against Vivian Charles Walsh, the University of Buffalo economics professor who married heiress Joanne Warner.

Walsh was arrested in New York City and returned here to face a charge that he cashed a worthless $22.15 check last February at a motel in suburban Cheektowaga. Judge Joseph Pyscznski of Cheektowaga Town Court said the motel asked Tuesday night that the case be dropped.

Walsh last year married the daughter of stockbroker J. Arthur Warner of Greenwich, Conn., despite Warner's opposition. The heiress has charged in court that her father fraudulently induced her to sign away a $300,000 trust fund that she is trying to get back.

Real Trouble Could Erupt If Foreign Ministers Are Unable to Agree Next Time

By JAMES MARLOW
Associated Press News Analyst

WASHINGTON (AP)—If speed were a meal-ticket, the diplomats would starve to death. For three years both sides have been in a slow dance on Berlin, pausing to parley. Now the music begins again.

This time the tune is a little different, more somber, because Premier Khrushchev sounds more determined. But once again the foreign ministers are beginning to shuffle toward another parley.

Door Still Open

Whether this means another full-blown and long-drawn out foreign ministers meeting or just a short one to be followed by another summit conference won't be known for a while.

But, as Khrushchev has kept on piling up the Berlin crisis, Secretary of State Dean Rusk has kept saying there'd be negotiations to settle the whole thing peacefully. Khrushchev has kept the door open for negotiations. But slow as it all is French President de Gaulle wanted it still slower. He was against hurrying into a conference with the Soviets. So a kind of compromise was worked out.

In September the West's Big Four ministers—American, British, French, West German—are expected to meet in this country to decide how to handle Khrushchev. Then they'll contact his foreign minister, Andrei Gromyko.

Easier With Cable

The purpose: to see whether he thinks East-West talks would be worthwhile. It would be much simpler to send him a cable, asking that question, but apparently cables move too fast.

But one thing's for sure: If the foreign ministers—the Western ones by themselves or the Western ones with Gromyko—duplicate their performance of the past two years the answer will be a big fat zero and maybe real trouble.

Khrushchev started the trouble in November 1958, when he called for the West to get out of Berlin. Between then and May 1959 both sides had time to figure out a settlement—if they wanted one. Apparently they didn't.

Confusion Before

The American, British and French foreign ministers met with Gromyko from May to August 1959, but they not only couldn't agree, they wound up in confessed confusion.

French Foreign Minister Couve de Murville said of Gromyko's tactics: "We are in complete confusion. We have reached a point at which neither side knows what the other is talking about."

The Westerners proposed, among other things, that Khrushchev agree to unification of East and West Germany. It didn't need a magician to know that's the last thing to which Khrushchev would let Gromyko agree.

So Gromyko said the Western proposals were a "hopeless tangle of unrelated issues." The West also wanted a five-year extension of the present Berlin situation. Russia offered only 18 months, with no promise of what happened afterwards.

This was such a total mess that, to calm down Khrushchev, President Eisenhower invited him to this country. After the two men met at Camp David they agreed to have a summit meeting in Paris May 16, 1960.

So, with more months in which to prepare for this, the Western foreign ministers by themselves met in April 1960. Their purpose, then as now, was to work out strategy for handling Khrushchev.

The result: no new ideas. What they decided, if summed up in two words, was: Stand pat. This hardly set the stage for an amicable get-together with the Russians.

U? Did Trick

But an amicable get-together seemed to be all that De Gaulle and Eisenhower wanted. Both men in public statements played down the idea of solutions and talked of laying the groundwork for better East-West relations.

But then the shooting down of the American U2 spy plane threw Khrushchev into such a tizzy that he wrecked the summit conference as soon as it started. This was the speediest piece of diplomatic business in years. But in 1958, 1959 and 1960 the West had better reason to think it could stall off Khrushchev than it has now. Then he was just talking big. Now he has shut off East Berlin and in effect tells the West it had better talk turkey in 1961.

VICE PRESIDENT AT LARGE

It takes an effort to recall the surprise which greeted Lyndon Johnson's unexpected acceptance last year of the No. 2 spot on the Democratic presidential ticket. Here was a man actually contemplating giving up the power of his position as majority leader in the Senate for the somewhat less than vital duties of vice president.

Johnson, to be sure, played it shrewdly like the professional he is by running for re-election to the Senate simultaneously in his home state of Texas. But to some, this bifurcation of his appeal to the voters made his complete political retirement look even more like a distinct possibility.

It takes an effort to recall this because Johnson has been treading in anything but the backwaters of the vice presidency for the past eight months. He has been in the swim of government in a vigorous fashion. And most of this effort has been in unfamiliar international waters, to stretch the metaphor as far as it will go.

As President Kennedy's personal envoy, he has been to Geneva, Africa, the Philippines, Formosa, Japan, Thailand, Viet Nam, Pakistan, India and, most recently, Berlin. The value of these trips to the President should not be understated.

Vice President Johnson's trip to Berlin may be viewed chiefly as a boost to the morale of the West Berliners, and in that respect it apparently was a successful maneuver. But another point is of overriding importance.

At one time, it would have been the peripatetic John Foster Dulles hopping on the plane to Berlin. But it was not the secretary of state, it was the vice president—the second in line—who went to that city the other day.

That fact is not lost on the Berliners, nor on others, who have never viewed the office of the U. S. vice president with the disdain that has been bred among ourselves by familiarity with this aspect of our constitutional system—at least, as it once was.

The vice president may be developing into something new on the American scene—Prime Minister and Plenipotentiary for Foreign Affairs. This would be much more than errand boy and much less than president, yet would be a unique and important position all its own. It could handle certain functions, such as a prestige visit to a foreign land, less easily carried out by the president or the secretary of state, while freeing them for concentration on other facets of foreign policy.

This Vice President Johnson seems already to have done in large measure. At the same time, he has been sharpening his knowledge of international political currents, both overall and in particular areas of the world.

This first-hand experience being gained by the vice president certainly will not be counted superfluous in the remaining three years of the administration.

SOURCES OF ENERGY

The average man is inclined to take his sources of energy for granted. He flicks the many switches that bring him light and power, he has his auto tank filled with gasoline when it runs low; beyond that, he has little interest in the matter.

This is going to change. The average man, as well as the experts, is going to find that concern about energy reserves is dictated by circumstances. For supplies of the main energy sources, coal and petroleum, are melting at a phenomenal rate as population and energy demands rapidly increase. The average man will be forced—and not so very long hence, either—not only to think about the energy he uses but to curtail that use very sharply.

It is this state of affairs that has brought about the first international Conference on New Sources of Energy, at which more than 500 scientists and others discussed studies of sunlight, wind and underground heat as potential supplements to the dwindling conventional fuels. The basic premise which underlay this conference was this—

'These Days'

By GEORGE SOKOLSKY

THE BOMBS

In the Potsdam papers, this incident appears: "Truman (says) . . . on July 24 I casually mentioned to Stalin that we had a new weapon of unusual destructive force. The Russian Premier showed no special interest. All he said was that he was glad to hear it and hoped we would make 'good use of it against the Japanese.'"

Secretary of State James Byrnes observed the following:

"At the close of the meeting of the Big Three on the afternoon of July 24, (Truman) . . . talked to Stalin. . . . We rode back to the 'Little White House' together. He said he had told Stalin that, after long experimentation, we had developed a new bomb far more destructive than any other known bomb, and that we planned to use it very soon unless Japan surrendered. Stalin's only reply was to say that he was glad to hear of the bomb and he hoped we would use it."

The most interesting and graphic description of what occurred there is given by Winston Churchill who was also present:

"Next day, July 24, after our plenary meeting had ended and we all got up from the round table and stood about in twos and threes before dispersing, I saw the President go up to Stalin, and the two conversed alone with only their interpreters. . . . I knew what the President was going to do. What was vital to measure was its effect on Stalin. I can see it all as if it were yesterday. He seemed to be delighted. . . . As we were waiting for our cars I found myself near Truman. 'How did it go?' I asked. 'He never asked a question,' he replied."

Naturally Stalin was not excited. His spies had already provided him with full information concerning the Manhattan Project and the atomic bomb. But what is to be recalled is that Stalin knew at the moment that the Japanese wanted peace and that they had already communicated with the Russians. For on July 28, 1945, with President Truman, Prime Minister Attlee (Churchill having been defeated in the election) and Generalissimo Stalin and their attendants present, Stalin said that the Russians 'had received a new proposal from Japan.' I quote:

"The translator then read the communication from Ambassador Saito which was marked strictly confidential and which was to the following effect: at our last meeting on July 13 the Ambassador had had the honor to submit the proposal of the Japanese government to send Prince Konoe to Moscow. He had received the reply of the Soviet government which did not see the possibility of giving a definite reply to the approach because no definite proposal had been made. In order to make the matter more precise he was communicating the following. The mission of Prince Konoe was to ask the Soviet government to take part in mediation to end the present war and to transmit the complete Japanese case in this respect. . . . Simultaneously, he wished to repeat that Prince Konoe was especially charged by His Majesty, the Emperor, to convey to the Soviet government that it was exclusively the desire of His Majesty to avoid more bloodshed by the parties engaged in the war. In view of the foregoing he hoped that the Soviet government would give favorable attention to his request and would give its consent to the arrival of the mission. He added that the Soviet government was aware of the position which Prince Konoe occupied in Japan."

"Stalin said there was nothing new in this except that it was more definite than the previous approach and that it would receive a more definite answer than was the case the last time, and that the answer would be in the negative."

Thus, we know that on July 28, 1945, the President of the United States was notified that the Japanese were seeking peace and that there was no further need to fight if an armistice could be arranged. The next words in the record are these:

"The President thanked Marshal Stalin."

And there the subject was dropped, not to be raised again at this Conference. The war between the United States and Japan ended August 14, 1945. During the interval between July 28, 1945 and the end of the war with Japan on August 14, 1945, the atomic bomb was dropped on Hiroshima August 6 killing 78,150 and injuring 37,425. A second bomb was dropped on Nagasaki (August 9) killing 73,884.

Glaucoma Tests Will Help Guard Precious Vision

By HAROLD T. HYMAN, M.D.

Written for Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

Here are some facts about your eyesight that might be worth your serious consideration, especially if you are 40 or over:

An estimated million persons in the United States have serious eye ailments without noticing any trouble.

In every large survey of persons over 40, two out of every hundred have chronic glaucoma. In homes for the elderly, this figure rises to six in a hundred.

Every year about 4,000 of us go blind from glaucoma. In almost every instance, the vision might have been preserved and controlled by early discovery and faithful treatment.

While glaucoma accounts for 14 to 15 percent of blindness in the United States, it is only second to cataract as a causative condition. Blindness from cataract also is amenable to treatment when discovered early and remedied by operative surgery.

Further down on the list of causes for blindness is inflammation of the nerve for vision, usually a result of chemical injury (retrobulbar optic neuritis). This too is preventable if diagnosed early and treated faithfully.

With this information at hand, most of it prepared by the National Institute of Neurological Diseases and Blindness of the National Institute of Health in Bethesda, Md., perhaps you'd like to know something of these conditions and what you can do to preserve one of your most cherished and valuable possessions.

Glaucoma is the name given a condition that is characterized by increased pressure of the fluids that are normally present within the eyeball. This pressure (intra-ocular tension) is easily and painlessly measured by the eye specialist (ophthalmologist). After a drop of local anesthetic solution is placed in your eye, the reading is made by gently pressing a measuring instrument (tonometer) on the eyeball. That's all there is to it.

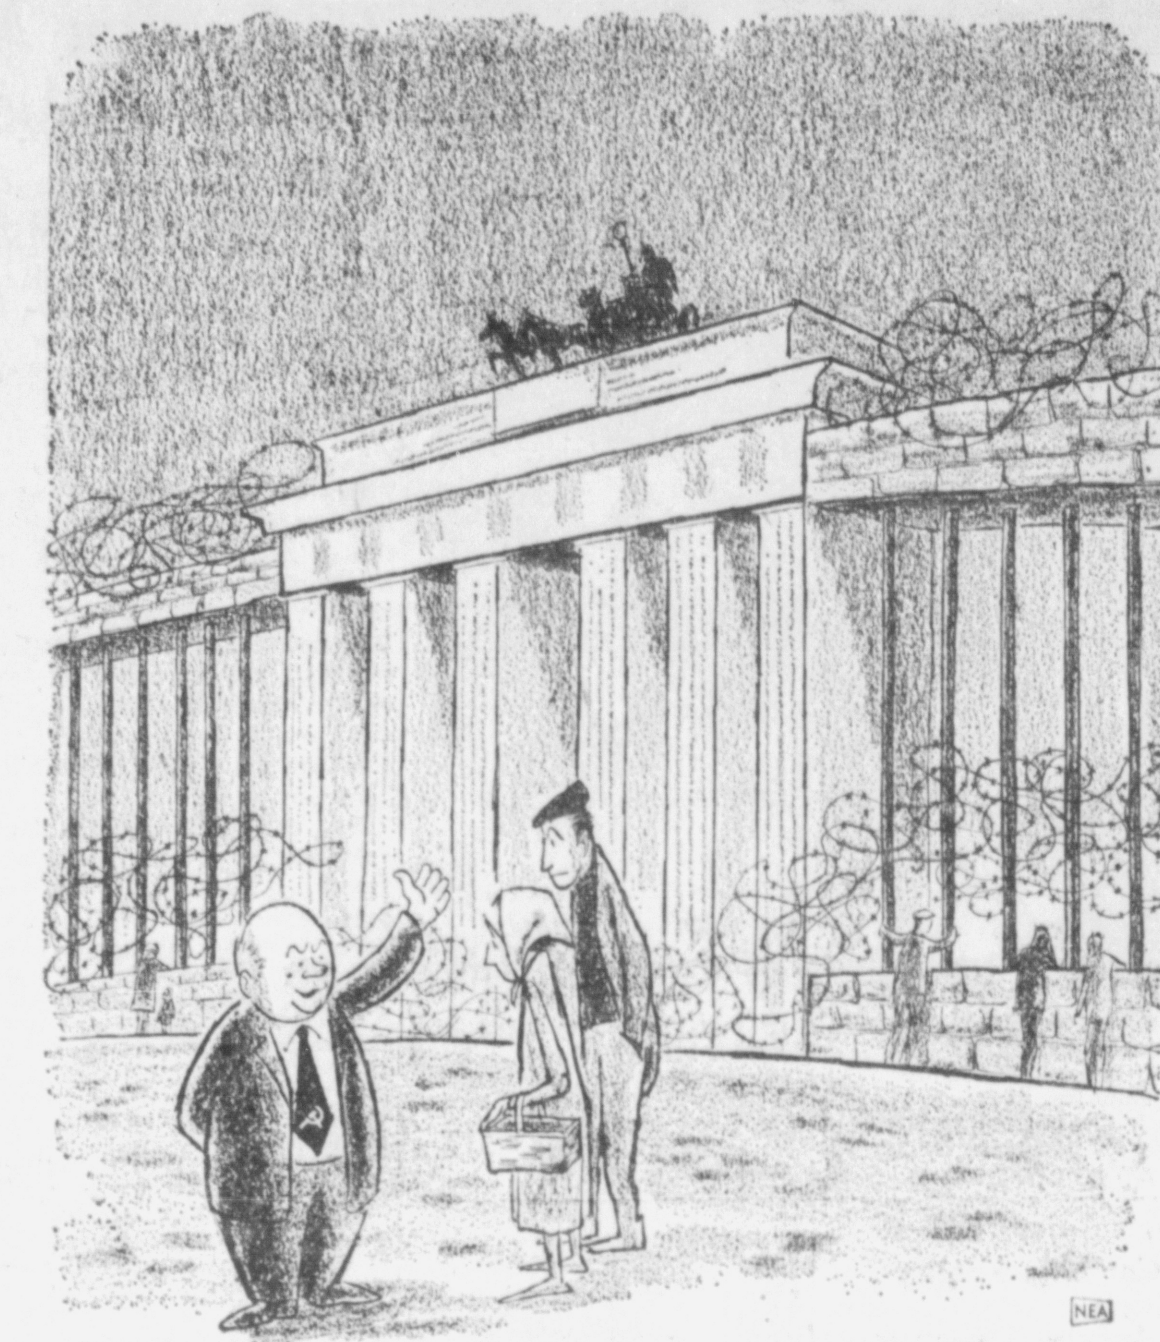

This simple measurement, made in a few seconds, may prove the means for saving your vision, often without the need for any surgery.

In another column, we'll consider cataracts and inflammations of the optic nerve.

that while the earth's population is expected to double and reach some six billion by the year 2000, the per capita demand for energy will probably grow at an even faster rate.

Technology has produced seeming miracles in the past. Perhaps it can do so now, developing new energy supplies fast enough to keep ahead of demand. Possibly a combination of means—nuclear and solar energy, wind power, the heat deep within the earth—will keep the wheels turning fast enough when coal and oil become scarce. It will take some doing—and it is everyone's concern.

"I Call It My Plan for a Free Berlin"

Washington News

By PETER EDSON Washington Correspondent Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

WASHINGTON — (NEA) — Few city folks realize it yet, but the Department of Agriculture—created to help farmers—is getting into nonfarm rural development on a big scale, even in towns and small cities. Many of its new programs of rural area development have nothing to do with raising crops.

Most recent expansion of these nonagricultural services comes in a $100-million appropriation from the new Area Redevelopment Administration. This was set up to help depressed areas open new industries and improve community facilities. Department of Agriculture has been designated to administer the programs in the 460 chronically depressed rural counties in 38 states.

Also, under new omnibus housing legislation passed this year, $430 million was earmarked for rural construction and modernization loans. For the first time, loans to nonfarmers for nonfarm housing in small towns are included in the program. They are to be administered by Farmers Home Administration. FHA has loaned over $300 million to 44,000 farmers for housing, but now it enters a new field.

Rural Electrification Administration, with over 1,000 local co-ops, is now authorized to make loans to small manufacturers for machinery used in rural area factories employing rural or small-town labor.

Also, REA co-ops in Wisconsin and Oklahoma have just won the right to continue power service to formerly rural areas that may be annexed by cities. This practice may spread.

About $78 million are being made available this year for small watershed protection and flood prevention projects. In the three months since President Kennedy signed the Area Development Act, the administration has approved 54 such projects. This is the largest number of new starts in a like period by the Agriculture Department since the small watershed development program was initiated by former Secretary Charles Brannan in the Truman administration.

The program was stepped up by new legislation in 1956. Since that time 1,500 communities have initiated applications for projects, 325 have been authorized, 41 completed, 163 put under construction, 109 given engineering services and only 12 dropped for various reasons. But now the program is to be accelerated with emphasis on aid to industrial development in rural communities.

ONE PRIZE EXAMPLE cited is in Culpeper, Va. This is a town of 3,000 in a rolling county of 1,000 farms, 90 miles from Washington. A bad flood had set the county back hard. But under the small watershed plan, the local soil conservation district got $168,000, the county kicked in $70,000 and the state $377,000. The $615,000 total built three dams which created a revolution.

The area got a good water supply system, and flood prevention was provided. Several new industries moved into town, off-farm jobs were provided for underemployed and prosperity began to come back.

TO MANAGE THESE and other, older Department of Agriculture programs, a new Office of Rural Area Development has been set up under John A. Baker, director of agricultural credit services in the department.

A rural areas development board will co-ordinate the work of 12 Department of Agriculture agencies operating in this field, under the direction of Turley Mace, a former assistant to Baker.

Other agencies include soil conservation, forest, stabilization and conservation, marketing and several research and reporting services.

Federal Extension Service is setting up state committees of local officials, co-ops, farm organizations, churches, civic business and labor groups. Two or more counties in an area will then be able to work together on plans which will contribute to the economic progress of farm and town.

Europe Called Ahead of U.S. In Handling Labor Relations

By DAVID LAWRENCE

WASHINGTON—One of the biggest challenges in the current competition between the Soviet Union and the Western countries is to be found in the field of labor-management relations.

There is no equivalent on the Western side as yet for the discipline which the Soviets have achieved in handling their labor. The Western countries are being urged to find voluntary methods that will attain some semblance of order in the wage-price problem and permit economic progress without disastrous interruptions due to major strikes.

In the United States, the friction between the two economic forces has long been recognized as serious, but no solution has been achieved. Nobody wants to see the government run the labor unions or direct the management of the employing companies. So the tendency thus far has been to rely on some form of government mediation. It has not always proved effective.

Europeans, on the other hand, have made some progress toward voluntary settlement of disputes which it would be desirable for America in particular to examine and see whether some of the same principles could not be successfully applied in this country. On this writer's recent trip to Europe, he had an opportunity for a long talk, in Sweden, with Arne Geijer, who is not only chairman of the Swedish Federation of Labor unions but also chairman of the International Confederation of Free Trade Unions. He has often visited the United States and is well known to its labor leaders. Mr. Geijer is a member of the Swedish Senate and is frequently mentioned in discussions as likely to be the next prime minister of Sweden.

In the interview which this writer had with him, it was apparent that Mr. Geijer sees clearly the gravity of the whole labor problem in the world today. He favors a policy of moderate wage demands rather than hit-or-miss settlements which hurt the economy. He says that wages must not get out of line with the development of industrial productivity. This is, of course, even more important to European countries, which must watch their competitive position closely in export markets.

Must Moderate Demands The Swedish labor leader is also insistent that workers must moderate their wage demands with respect to social-welfare measures. He sees a growing competition between labor and government in the field of social welfare. He thinks that workers cannot have both — maximum wage increases and generous social-welfare arrangements. He would prefer to see the government handle the whole welfare problem.

It has taken time for Mr. Geijer to convince local labor leaders of the long-range advantages of a moderate wage policy and better co-operation with management, but he is making substantial progress. He said, incidentally, that the United States has a lot to learn about the settling of disputes with labor. But perhaps the real weakness is that in America there is no national body—composed of labor and management leaders—which can have a powerful moderating influence on the different labor unions and persuade management to strive harder for the improvement of wage scales.

Not Misuse Freedom "One is therefore always faced with the problem of how to limit labor disputes, strikes and lockouts by democratic means, in order to benefit as much as possible from the rapid pace of development. In some countries there problems have been solved through legislation which, in many cases, covers quite extensive areas and this is an infringement upon the freedom of the parties in the labor market to secure peaceful conditions."

To my mind, the freedom of the parties in the labor market to negotiate agreements concerning wages and working conditions is an essential part of a democratic society. . . . However, we must not misuse this freedom. Otherwise the state can be forced to intervene or can make an excuse for doing so in order to ward off serious harm to the community. The freedom of the parties in the labor market to fix wages and working conditions without interference is therefore a freedom under responsibility. . . .

The national unions must also give enough power to the central organization to enable it to settle the demarcation disputes between them. "During the last decade most of the agreements concluded in my own country have been reached as a result of central negotiations between the two top organizations, that is to say, the Confederation of Swedish Employers and ourselves. Only on one occasion negotiated separately. It is likely that central negotiations covering the whole wage market will be the rule also in the future. But a condition for central negotiations is good will on the employers' side and an atmosphere of understanding for the needs and demands of the different low-paid groups especially."

There is not optimism about the future of labor relations in Sweden. There are fears of a major strike next year—the first in many years. Wages keep on going up, and so do prices. Profit margins are narrowing. That's why so many of Sweden's industrialists pin their hopes on the European Common Market. They look for increased volume even at smaller profit margins to help them out of their wage dilemma.

AS PEGLER SEES IT

By WESTBROOK PEGLER

RICHMOND, Ind.—Ed Kaepfer, the news editor of the Palladium-Item invited me to come by and watch a quiet, constitutional morning and evening American newspaper perform its 24-hour cycle in a quiet city of 50,000. At the climax of my brief stay I found myself honored by the intimacy of a family circle of 35 men and women at a going-away party for two members. They were blowing a kiss to a beautiful young woman, Mrs. Phil Dubbs, their church editor, and throwing a wave to Paul Hedges, a reserve major of the Air Force, who apparently is being called up from his job as a farm-fitter. I do not think I want to say they were blowing a kiss to Major Hedges.

This was a strange party in a very strange way. It was a chicken-dinner at a dry roadhouse called the Coffee Pot, way out of town, absolutely innocent of alcohol and with no evidence that anyone had sneaked one out in the parking lot—or anywhere. I do not remember when last I attended a dinner which was absolutely dry. But, as the girls from the kitchen came through the swinging doors in relays, shoving great bowls of gray cream gravy and mashed potatoes and biscuits at us with a quiet instruction to take some and pass it along, I secretly nagged the subject of this great difference between their idea of a party and the kind that I have been accustomed to since 'way back in Prohibition. At a guess, there was enough cream gravy to put 1,000 pounds on the lot of us for it was heavy with flour, and the mashed potatoes were golden with molten butter.

The girls at the Palladium-Item had picked up a modest few dollars for a present for Shirley—that is her first name when you have known her this long—and one for Major Hedges and those poor souls had to make little speeches which were right pleasant, nevertheless, and without, as I say, a martini or even a beer. Did you know there were people in this country who don't drink?

On the terrifying topic of the gravy the solace was offered that there wasn't any more flour in a scoop of gravy than in a slice of white bread which may be true but everybody had biscuits, too, three? We lived desperately; honey, too. And the fried chicken was called finger-dickin' chicken. It comes armored in deep fat pasty.

The Palladium was founded in 1831 and Edolph Leeds, who had owned it since 1908 is so set against the United Nations that he sets the name without capitals like this—united nations or u.n. The last time I was in Verdun the principal products were steel and little colored candies with food in them which the French serve at Christmas.

I then flew 18 minutes into Cincinnati so checkbook with Negro Shriners that if a merciful stranger had not put me up at a private club I would have slept on a bench. There were colored Shriners backed up almost to Louisville and Centralia, Ill., for three nights running. What was that about freedom?

I saw the fantastic sun and stars, then extraordinary, unearthly colors. The cosmos awaits its own painters and poets and, of course, scientists. —Russian spacemen Gherman Titov.

The oldsters in our society now have double income tax exemptions. Why not a similar provision for persons in the first five years of marriage when the problems of living, adjusting and supporting children are the greatest?

—Dr. Thomas P. Monahan, sociologist of the Philadelphia Municipal Court.

We're living in a strange age when, in a supposedly free country, the captain of an airship or the people who get on it are in complete jeopardy because of the possibility of being hijacked. —Mrs. Carl Ballard wife of the pilot of a jet liner hijacked to Havana by a Franchman.

Segregation in Atlanta Schools Ends as Nine Negro Pupils Enter

ATLANTA (AP) — Nine Negro pupils strolled into classes in previously white Atlanta schools today, and watchful police nipped quickly any hint of trouble.

Thus the traditional school segregation barriers — in force in Georgia and Atlanta for 100 years — tumbled, reluctantly perhaps, but quietly. Total public school segregation now remains in only three Deep South states — Alabama, Mississippi and South Carolina.

At the first indication of any trouble at the four high schools being desegregated under federal court orders, police dispersed small knots of spectators and whisked to police headquarters several persons who gave them arguments.

Signs Confiscated

An hour before classes began, police at Murphy High School confiscated two signs urging a boycott of the schools. A man posting a boycott sign in a yard nearby was ordered to remove it or be taken into custody. The sign came down.

Employment Hit Peak in August

WASHINGTON (AP) — Employment surged to a record high during August and there was some reduction in the number of long-term unemployed.

But Secretary of Labor Arthur J. Goldberg, releasing the August job figures Tuesday, said the unemployment rate remained at the same 6.9 per cent of the labor force.

Employment hit a total of 68,539,000, up 40,000 over July. This compared with 68,282,000 in August last year.

Unemployment was down 598,000 to 4,542,000, compared with 3,788,000 a year earlier.

Despite the dip in unemployed, Goldberg said the percentage of the labor force out of jobs remained the same because the labor force total declined as many students, unable to find summer jobs, quit trying.

Goldberg said he was encouraged by some reduction in the number of long-term unemployed — those who have been out of jobs for so many months that their unemployment compensation payments have ended.

First large-scale commercial production of ice cream was at Baltimore, Md., in 1851.

Some ancient relics show the English mastiff was flourishing as early as 3000 B.C.

City officials and police had made elaborate plans to prevent disorder and the opening day started quietly. A long campaign by civic groups, city officials, educators and religious leaders for a peaceful transition, paved the way for the change.

School integration was the signal for merchants to desegregate downtown lunch counters under an agreement reached months ago. The Atlanta school system has 69,000 white pupils and 48,000 Negroes. Segregation remained in effect at 13 white high schools, five Negro high schools, 73 white elementary schools and 41 Negro elementary schools.

Taken Into Custody

A man who identified himself as Bill Cody of Arlington, Va., was taken into custody at Grady High School 10 minutes after the Negro pupils entered the building. Cody told a police officer, "I want to picket, and I am going to picket."

Within minutes after two Negro girls entered Murphy High, police moved back small groups of young white men who approached the school from both sides. Three who were reluctant to move back were taken to police headquarters when they refused to give their names.

At Brown High, two men were taken into custody by officers but were not detained. They told police they were just spectators. Police at Brown made another man carrying a camera move on because he did not have a press pass.

Officers at Northside High stopped two men for loitering but they turned out to be FBI agents.

Police Guard Schools

Last-minute efforts of race extremists to stir up resistance to Georgia's first public school desegregation apparently had little effect and registration proceeded normally Tuesday, said Deputy School Supt. Rual W. Stephens.

Police security measures at Brown, Murphy, Grady and Northside high schools were put into effect after pickets appeared briefly at Atlanta City Hall and one of the schools.

An organization calling itself Youth for Educational Segregation joined the attempt to promote resistance, issuing handbills calling for a boycott of the desegregated schools, soliciting funds and urging formation of private schools.

Police Chief Herbert Jenkins said a Ku Klux Klan splinter group distributed literature with the names, pictures and telephone numbers of the nine Negro transfer students.

Originally 10 Negroes were approved for transfer to white schools, but Damaris Allen, 16, disclosed Monday she had accepted scholarship to Negro Spelman College in Atlanta.

lice and cableway workers cooperated in the rescue operation. The lift runs along a three-inch thick traction cable strung for more than three miles from the Aiguille du Midi to the French-Italian border.

The cutting of the tow cable sent three cars spinning down the steep incline of one section of the support cable. At a way station at the foot of the incline the three cars jumped the cable and plunged 700 feet to the glacier below, killing a German family of four in one car and an Italian father and son in another. The third car was empty.

More than 25 other cable cars were left hanging high above the Alps. A winch was hurried into place and Alpine rescuers inched their way out on the support cable to attach cables to pull the cars to safety. Through the night the cars were slowly pulled to the line's terminals or to points from which Alpinists could lower the occupants by ropes to the glacier.

The pilot of the plane, a Capt. Ziegler of a French experimental jet squadron, landed his damaged F8F jet at his base at Luxeuil, in central France. It was impounded by civil investigators.

The plane zipped over the valley at well above the speed of sound. No one reported actually seeing it cut the traction cable, but one sightseer, Francis Blanchard, a Frenchman with the International Labor Organization at Geneva, said he saw the plane performing acrobatics just before.

Kept Others From Fate

Officials were thankful for one circumstance in the bizarre accident. After the three cabins derailed, the loose end of the tow cable, entangled in the rollers of the way station tower. This kept several other tourist-loaded cars from being cut loose to roll backward on the downhill side of the tower.

The cable line is strung between two peaks of 15,781-foot Mont Blanc and stretches three miles between the 10,500-foot Aiguille du Midi on the French side of the chasm and the Torino, slightly lower, on the Italian side. It makes a sharp dip at the halfway mark, a rocky outcrop known as the Gros Rognon (Big Kidney).

Tourists normally do the ride in half an hour, dangling at times 1,000 feet above the glacier. At eight points along the way there are stopping points where they can get out.

On this trip some of the tourists spent 20 hours in the tiny cabins. Most were dressed in summer clothes. One passenger, an Indian woman from London, had on a thin sari and gold slippers. Some one loaned her a pair of wool socks to negotiate the glacier after she was lowered from her stranded car.

Most of the sightseers were French, Italian or British, but there were a few Americans. Hugh Putnam, 20, of Milton, Mass., and his cousin, Katherine Blodgett, 19, of Grand Rapids, Mich., were stranded for 15 hours. They got down via a rope and took their ordeal cheerfully.

"I was terrified at first," said Miss Blodgett, "but then I quickly relaxed. We had an American newspaper with us and spent part of the time doing the crossword puzzle. I must confess that when darkness fell the puzzle was still incomplete."

It was a beautiful moonlight on the mountain and the trapped passengers had a spectacular view of the summit of Mont Blanc, the Alp's highest mountain, and the glacier below.

The accident was witnessed by Prof. Angus Taylor of Los Angeles and his wife, who had just finished lunch and were watching people board the cars on the Italian side.

All So Quiet Taylor saw the plane coming in at high speed. "Then there was a big commotion and I saw those cars falling into the valley like ornaments, dropping off a Christmas tree."

Taylor said he did not actually see the plane hit the cable or even hear any noise.

"That was why it was so terrifying — it was all so quiet up there on the peak," he said. "There were no screams, nothing but the fading whistle of the jet plane and the wind. It was terrifying."

Two Youths Face Larceny Charges Two youths were arrested by city police late Tuesday night, and warrants have been issued for four additional arrests in connection with the alleged theft of speakers from the public address system at 9W Drive-in Theatre.

Detective Guernsey Burger and Patrolman Floyd Krom picked up two youths and turned them over to Lake Katrine troopers who charged them with petty larceny. The youths were identified by authorities as John E. Smith, 18, of Lake Katrine and Girard Gallagher, also 18, of 21 Lawrence Street, city.

Justice of the Peace Robert S. Stedje, Town of Ulster, paroled the youths in custody of their parents and adjourned the case until Thursday at 7 p. m. Judge Stedje confirmed a report that he signed four warrants charging petty larceny and that more arrests are expected.

PROCESSION WITH TORAH—Members of Congregation Agudas Achim proceed toward the synagogue at 24 West Union Street bearing Torah Scroll which was dedicated in ancient times Sunday afternoon. The religious procession started from the home of Mrs. Sarah Gellman who donated the scroll to the synagogue in memory of her husband Morris Gellman. Dedication ceremonies at the synagogue were conducted by Rabbi H. Z. Rappaport, Cantor Herman Slomovits and Rabbi Gershon Merrill, scribe, of New York City. (Freeman photo)

Over 250 Attend Dedication Rite At Agudas Achim

The Jewish Community of Kingston celebrated a rare event last Sunday when a Torah Scroll was dedicated at Congregation Agudas Achim.

Representatives of all Jewish organizations as well as synagogue members and public officials were among the 250 persons who witnessed the traditional rites.

The ceremonies began with a procession from Hasbrouck Avenue at Union Street from the house of Mrs. Sarah Gellman who donated the Torah Scroll to Agudas Achim. The Torah was carried under a Hupa (wedding canopy) by the ex-presidents of the congregation, L. Ellenbogen, L. Alcon, J. Epstein, G. Margolis, M. Lipton, H. Reher and Rabbi H. Z. Rappaport, DD. The procession proceeded to the door of the Synagogue.

Cantor Herman Slomovits sang a welcome to the new scroll joined by the congregation. From the door of the Synagogue the scroll was carried by J. Kreppel. The scroll was then placed on the altar. The first and last paragraphs were written in full view of those assembled by Rabbi Gershon Merrill, renowned scribe of New York City.

When the last word of the Torah was written, the Ark was opened and officers of the congregation took the scrolls from the ark, the scrolls were taken through the Synagogue. The cantor took the new scroll and placed the silver crown upon it and chanted the "Hymn Etz Haim Hee." (It is a tree of life to those who uphold it) and dedicated it to service in religious worship.

During the program, Joseph Epstein, welcomed the guests. Rabbi Rappaport spoke on the history and significance of the ceremony. Manuel Lipton accepted the Torah on behalf of the congregation. Cantor Slomovits and his sons, Szabo and Sandor, entertained with singing.

Refreshments were served to all assembled in the vestry hall.

U. N., Congolese Tension Mounts

LEOPOLDVILLE, the Congo (AP)—The United Nations rushed 350 Ethiopian reinforcements to Stanleyville today as tension between U.N. and Congolese troops mounted.

The United Nations announced that Ingram Englund, its chief officer in Stanleyville, was threatened with arrest over the weekend while having talks with Antoine Gizenga.

A Congolese soldier burst into the room at Gizenga's office and pointed a rifle at the chest of Englund, a Swede, and told him he was under arrest.

But the U.N. official's Ethiopian escort threatened to use force and the Congolese backed down.

Seventeen families of U.N. officials in Stanleyville have been flown back to Leopoldville as a safety measure.

Coalition Halts House

WASHINGTON, (AP)—A powerful coalition of Republicans and Southern Democrats today voted to prevent House consideration of the administration's federal aid to education bill.

The move, which came quickly after the House met at noon, apparently ended chances of getting through at this session the principle the administration badly wanted to establish—federal money for the construction of public school facilities.

Two other parts of the package, aid to schools overcrowded by children of federal workers, and extension of a student loan program, are likely to be salvaged and passed later. Many members, both Republican and Democratic, favor these programs while bitterly opposing public school construction.

Yonkers Motorist Hurt in Wallkill Railroad Mishap

A 31-year-old Yonkers motorist was injured at 8:55 a. m. today on Route 300 about three miles east of Wallkill, when his automobile was struck by a diesel engine on the New York, New Haven and Hartford railroad's Maybrook to New Haven division.

Highland State Police said Raymond Reinecke, of 69 Delano Street, Yonkers, was taken to St. Luke's Hospital, Newburgh, suffering lacerations of the right ear and thumb and a possible broken right arm.

Troopers said Reinecke was traveling downgrade and rounding a left curve on Route 300 when the head engine of a four-diesel unit freight train struck the rear of the automobile and pushed it some distance from the railroad crossing.

Why We Say--

GET THE THIRD DEGREE

INITIATION: This expression probably came into use from Freemasonry, but today it is usually used to denote rough treatment by the police. In Freemasonry the third degree is Master Mason and it is said to be conferred after a rigid initiation. To the police, the first degree is the arrest, the second degree confinement and the third degree violent questioning.

U. S. Drops Case Against Mack in Channel 10 Award

WASHINGTON (AP)—The government dropped charges today brought against Richard A. Mack of Florida, a former Federal Communications Commission member, in connection with award of television Channel 10 in Miami.

A Justice Department attorney moved in federal district court here for dismissal of the three-year-old indictment. Judge Alexander Holtzoff granted the motion.

The action ended a case that had its beginnings in a Congressional investigation of the FCC in the spring of 1958.

A House subcommittee went into reports that Mack's vote in the award of the Miami TV channel to Public Services Inc., a subsidiary of National Airlines, was influenced by money and other gifts from Thurman A. Whiteside, a Miami attorney and friend of Mack.

In the midst of the investigation, Mack resigned from the FCC. In September 1958, Mack and Whiteside were indicted by a federal grand jury on three counts:

That they conspired to obstruct administration of federal law; that Whiteside corruptly influenced Mack's vote on the FCC; that Mack corruptly influenced the proper administration of law by receiving money and other favors from Whiteside.

Mack and Whiteside, who denied they had done anything wrong, were tried here jointly in 1958. The trial ended in a hung jury.

Whiteside was tried alone in October 1959 and was acquitted. At that time the court was informed Mack was under treatment for alcoholism and various ailments and was not able to stand trial.

Seven months after his acquittal, Whiteside was found in his Miami office dead of a gunshot wound. The verdict: Suicide.

H. Schimmerling Announces Three Music Scholarships

H. A. Schimmerling, Woodstock's prominent composer, music teacher and critic, has announced that he is making available one full scholarship and two half scholarships.

The scholarships will be available for area students of music in the field of piano, voice and general music education, including theory, form, orchestration, appreciation, etc.

Only students of above average talent who are willing to put great effort into their musical education, and who cannot afford to pay regular or nominal tuition fees may apply, Schimmerling said.

He also announced that a clinic for educational problems will be available to take care of individual "treatment" of special educational cases, promoting of talents, proper choices in methods of learning, teaching of foreign languages, etc. This service is free for parents and students who are not in a position to pay.

Schimmerling will be available for appointments by telephone only. He may be called at his Woodstock number.

Lecture on India By de Lisio Heard By Rotary Club

A film lecture by Stephen de Lisio of Woodstock on his recent seven-weeks trip through India held the rapt attention of members of the Rotary Club at Deane's Monday night.

de Lisio, a student at Albany Law School, related his observations gleaned during his visit in India as part of the Experiment in International Living. He was selected from among several candidates from colleges around the country.

After his formal remarks, de Lisio showed a series of excellent slides touching on the business, cultural, social, artistic and historic background of that mysterious country — India. He accompanied the slides with astute commentary and answered questions.

The 35 students in his group departed for India by plane after a period of orientation in Putney, Vt. de Lisio said that probably the most important impression he gained during his stay there was the realization how very little we know about the rest of the world. And, he said, we have only a minute idea of what the Far East means.

He lived mainly in cities and was housed with families whose status would compare with our lower and upper middle class strata and a few in the very wealthy classification.

Language Barrier

While English is spoken freely in India, there are still 12 major languages which create a constant barrier to communications, he said. He felt that seven weeks was hardly enough time to absorb the understanding, culture and complex social and political feeling of the country.

American tourists in India are hampered by our own heritage, de Lisio said. We are unable to see India as it really is, but rather as it appears to our pre-determined feelings and prejudices and misinformation.

The slides covered a wide range of topics, touching on the enormous structure of Indian philosophy, business and culture. Included among the films was a photo of the world famous Taj Mahal, large caves holding art treasures that date back 2,500 years and many others showing the trend toward modern architecture in the large cities of India. The religious temples in a country where religion is a 24 hour a day ritual were awe inspiring.

The film lecture was also seen by several guests of the Rotary Club, de Lisio, who is the son of Mr. and Mrs. A. J. de Lisio of Woodstock, returns to Albany Law School on Sept. 12.

League Advises Absentee Voting On Setting Up

"Don't forget to inquire now about absentee voting, if you will be away from Woodstock election time."

This is the timely reminder issued today by Mrs. Herwig Sternberg, Voters Service chairman of the Woodstock League of Women Voters.

If you are returning to college or service, or leaving for winter quarters and normally vote in Woodstock, Mrs. Sternberg suggests you visit town hall any time between 9 a. m. and 5 p. m., Monday through Friday to get information on casting an absentee ballot.

This is an important town election for local residents, since they must vote on candidates for town supervisor, one councilman, one Justice of the Peace, a highway superintendent, town clerk and assessor, says Mrs. Sternberg.

In addition there will be several county offices open and seven amendments to the state constitution to be voted on. The League of Women voters urges all persons to exercise their right to vote.

League Invites New Members

The terrace of the home of Mrs. Joseph Steinlauf on Mead Mountain Road will be the setting of an Open House Membership meeting to be held by the Woodstock League of Women Voters on Sept. 6 at 8 p. m.

"We cordially invite all women of the area above voting age to attend," said Mrs. R. C. Earnest, program chairman. "We will include an introduction to all of the League activities in the program, in addition to a talk on Practical Politics by Mrs. Frank Falknor and an entertainment skit on the Court Reform Amendments," Mrs. Earnest concluded.

Participating in this skit will be Mrs. Alvin Moscovitz, Mrs. Harry Almond, Mrs. Gordon Anderson, Mrs. Walter Balk and Mrs. Gordon Frye.

College Faculty Art in Albany

Simultaneously with the Arts and Cultural Centers Exhibition with which the Albany Institute of History and Art is opening its season, is a second exhibition of sculpture by college art faculty, who are teaching in the vicinity of Albany.

Included in the show are Earl Pardon of Skidmore College, Lee Hirsche of Williams College, George Rickey of Rensselaer Polytechnic Institute, Benjamin Karp of State University College of Education in New Paltz, William Wilson of State College of Albany.

The media used are wood, stone, terra, cotta, metal, papier mache.

George Rickey, formerly of Tulane University faculty and a current Guggenheim Fellow will be teaching next year at RPI in the school of architecture.

William Wilson came to Albany after traveling in the South Seas. Hirsche, prize winner in Art U. S. A., 1959, does both sculpture and drawing and was represented in the 1961 Regional Exhibition by Artists of the Upper Hudson with a three dimensional work in paper and wire on plywood.

Intellectual Approach Seen By Schimmerling

My first piano teacher, Miss Klithilde Schafer, was a pupil of the great Leschetizky. From him she learned how to memorize music. I learned from her. I was quite young when I started to do this. Retrospectively seen, I marvel that I was able to do when I was only 10. In younger years, I did not memorize at all. I remembered by ear.

Today, we would say: I learned phonetically. I rather use the term "acoustically". Later by training, I got used to it by brain; not only music, practically everything I studied. Not to sit at the piano while memorizing music but walking through the woods or sitting in an easy chair was a new experience for me. Today, 50 years after I had this new experience, it is still new for many adults, including teachers. For youngsters, of course, it always will be a new experience, that is, until the brainy method as part of a general intellectual approach becomes part of our daily curriculum.

This intellectual approach is based upon analyzing the subject to memorize. The original basic methods are (1) acoustic, (2) epic, (3) mechanic. They rarely are used as one method only, that is, without combinations such as (1) with (2) or (3); (2) with (3) or (1), etc. and even as (1) with (2) and (3). The above mentioned intellectual approach is method number (4); it is the brainy method in which (1), (2) and/or (3) are helpful assistants. This method is, of course, applicable to every subject, not only music and is especially rewarding when studying foreign languages.

Used as Incentive

The analysis of arithmetical rows is an incentive for independent thinking. For example, what is the pattern of the row (series): 2, 6, 11, 8, 12, 17, 14, 18, 23, 20? The pattern is "plus 4, plus 5, minus 3." Whether the student needs the pencil and paper to find it, whether it takes him a few seconds or minutes to recognize the pattern depends on innate qualities such as alertness; but it depends on training even more. Though the result of practicing the intellectual approach is always positive, don't expect any substantial results and changes in the student's way of thinking and studying before at least six months of training.

The enrichment of the student's vocabulary and its proper application is based upon etymology. For example, the understanding of the Greek syllables, phon, graph, tele, ply, soph, chron and many more means to understand the meaning of telegraph, synchronize, polyphone, philosophy, etc.; the understanding of Dis, Contra, Trans will contribute not only to an early incorporation into the vocabulary but also the student's ability to use such words as disparage, dissension, contradiction, submissive, transpose, etc., words which as a result of our insufficient methods are added to a youngster's vocabulary at a rather late age.

Enriches Vocabulary

By applying the intellectual approach of etymologic analysis, resorting to Greek, Latin, Old Germanic roots, comparative reference to Germanic, Romance and Slavic sources would not only improve the understanding of an enriched English vocabulary and its proper application for practical use; it would moreover open the portals and pave the road toward the study of foreign languages at the same time. At the same time. This slogan of doing more than one thing at the same time which seems to be the alpha and omega, the "open secret" of success and accomplishment, leads to the chapter called coordination. Space does not permit to discuss this important issue in this column.

By applying the intellectual approach, children will soon penetrate deep into the morphology of words, form their own words, understand words they never heard before. They will understand why transgression, aggression and progression have something in common; what capital and capitol have something to do with decapitate and chapter; why cavalry, chevalier and cavalier are related words. And switching occasionally into the field of foreign languages; why the Latin mater, the English mother, the German Mutter, the French mere, the Spanish and Italian madre, the Russian matka, the Czech and Polish matka, etc. all start with an "M." The possibilities are unlimited they form an inexhaustible treasure. This English replica of the poem "Memory" by the immortal Goethe—should it not be our guiding star today more than ever before:

Why reaching into distance space?
Lo, your fortune is so close;
Learn to reach it through God's grace;

It is present all your days.

DONALD LAWSON

JOHN ROBBINS

The final two appointments to the board of directors and the budget committee of Ulster County Community Chest was announced this week by the Saugerties Chest Advisory Committee.

Donald Lawson of Simmons Park accepted an appointment as a member of the board of directors, and John Robbins of the village accepted an appointment as a member of the budget committee. These last two appointments complete Saugerties' representation within the county organization, the other two previously announced appointments include David Cunningham to the board of directors, and Donald Beckert to the budget committee.

Plans are underway for organizing of the Community Chest campaign which is scheduled for October. Appointment to the various campaign posts are in process and will be announced shortly.

Lawson is assistant plant manager of the Alsen Plant of the Lehigh Portland Cement Co., and has been very active in community affairs since coming to Saugerties from Kingston in 1955. He has an impressive background with the United States Junior Chamber of Commerce, a career which extends from his membership on the board of directors of the Allentown Jaycees, to his election last year as president of the New York State Junior Chamber of Commerce.

He was largely instrumental in forming the local Saugerties Jaycee chapter and served as its charter president. Prior to his election as state president last year, he was regional vice president of the Mid-Hudson Region and also served as internal vice president of the state.

Lawson graduated from Lafayette College with a BS Degree in electrical engineering, and resides with his wife, Betty, and their three children in Simmons Park.

Robbins is a graduate of Saugerties High School, and Albany Business College, and is presently secretary-treasurer of Saugerties Savings Bank. He has been active in various organizations of the Savings Bank Association of New York State, the American Institute of Banking, and has held increasingly responsible positions with the Saugerties Savings until his appointment to the post he now holds.

Robbins has considerable experience with organized charities, now serving as a director of Ulster County TB and Health Association and chairman of the local Salvation Army Service Unit Committee. He is also active in the Boy Scouts of America, for which he is the Saugerties District Finance Chairman.

Robbins is a member of Saugerties Reformed Church and its greater consistory having served actively as deacon and elder, clerk of the consistory, and also treasurer of the church for the past four years. He resides with his wife and two children on Market Street.

Schools to Open
Thursday, Sept. 7

All pupils in the Saugerties Central Schools will begin work on Thursday, Sept. 7.

Dr. Grant D. Morse, superintendent of schools, said today any pupils who expect to be in attendance who have not registered should do so immediately. High school pupils should make an appointment with Director of Guidance, Miss Frances Larned; elementary pupils with the Director of Elementary Education, Miss Mary Evans.

Pupils who will be on a short-time schedule will be sent notices on September 1 indicating the place and hour where they will attend. All pupils in the grades will be on a full-time schedule right from the start of school except the kindergartens who will attend one hour the first day and one and one-half hours the second day.

In the high school, pupils in grades 8-12 will be in attendance from 8 to 11 a. m.; 7th graders from 12 to 3 p. m. except that all pupils who must make schedule changes will need to remain to accomplish this.

Cafeterias in the three larger elementary buildings will serve lunches beginning with the first day of school. At the high school only a token luncheon for a limited number of pupils will be available.

Pupils who have a new address in the district, who have moved since last June should notify Miss Evans at the Mt. Marion Building immediately in order that they may be assigned to classes.

PATRICIA SLOBODA

SUSAN ATKINS

Among those to compete in the Miss Saugerties pageant Sept. 15 and 16 at the Saugerties Central School Auditorium will be Miss Patricia Sloboda and Miss Susan Atkins.

Miss Sloboda, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Sloboda of Robinson Street, Saugerties, is a senior at Saugerties Central School and is planning a career in nursing.

She has brown hair and blue eyes. Her hobbies are bowling, singing and drama. She is a member of the Girls Sextet, Spanish Club and Music Club.

Miss Atkins, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas B. Atkins is following a commercial curriculum at Saugerties Central School.

The blue-eyed blonde is five foot six inches tall. She is a member of Leaders Club at the high school and is interested in swimming, archery and bowling.

Plans Announced
For High Woods
Labor Day Fair

Seventy years ago a little girl's aunt bought her a red folding fan at the first High Woods Reformed Church Labor Day Fair. On Labor Day, Sept. 4, that same church will again hold its annual Labor Day Fair.

The first fair was held out front of the church on the large bluestone step. This year it will take a church hall, 14 carriage stalls and a former one-room schoolhouse to accommodate the fair and the hundreds of people who will attend to be served the ham dinner, and enjoy the display of a wide variety of articles for sale. The Ladies Aid, whose president is that same little girl for whom the fan was bought (she still has the fan), will have many fancy articles, an Empty Spool quilt, in the church colors of blue and yellow, two afghans, and an attractively embroidered luncheon cloth.

The former High Woods schoolhouse will become a weaving studio and display room for colorful hand woven articles made by local women and girls. On display will be rugs, shopping bags and pillows. During the day weavers will be at work at hand looms, demonstrating how these things are made. Engaged in this revival of a native craft are the following young people, some of whose grandmothers or great grandmothers were local weavers: Jeannie Short, Georgette Carlson, Beverly Donaldson and Kathy Donaldson. The adult members of the group were instructed last winter by Esther Sluizer, an accomplished weaver of Zena, who teaches at the Woodstock Guild of Craftsmen.

Another innovation this year will be two booths worthwhile antiques and old china and glass, exhibited respectively by Mrs. Sonia Conlon and Mrs. Edith Osterhout of Kingston. These exhibitors have been featuring china and glass at various church and library fairs.

Mrs. Harold Shortt and Mrs. William Till and their group of 4-H girls will have a booth with handcraft articles, Christmas trimmings and decorations, and baked goods.

At two o'clock the parade will get underway to contribute to the festivity of the day. Floats, mummies on foot and bands will take part. For the first time, blue, red and yellow ribbons will be awarded by the parade judges.

After the parade, a well known local artist will make souvenir sketches.

From opening time at noon until closing time in the evening, there will be refreshments and snacks available.

Scout Camporee

Boy Scout Troop 32 of the Atonement Lutheran Church will hold a Camporee Friday, Saturday and Sunday at Aqua Hill, with five patrols, the Buffalo, Panther, Eagle, Paul Bunyon and Flaming Arrow, participating. The boys will leave the church Friday between 5 and 6 p. m.

Events scheduled for Saturday afternoon include water maneuvers and patrol skills. Saturday evening, beginning at 8:15, the traditional Campfire will be held. Parents and visitors may attend.

Sunday morning all boys will attend church services, with groups being taken to the Atonement Lutheran, St. Mary's of Saugerties and the Church of the Nazarene, Kingston.

To Receive Awards

Two Boy Scouts of Troop 32, Bradlee Welton, son of Mr. and Mrs. John Welton of John Street, and Brian Legg, son of Mr. and Mrs. Hubert Legg of Finger Street, will receive the Eagle Scout award at the Court of Honor to be held at the Municipal Auditorium Sept. 22. Other Scouts of Troop 32 will receive awards from Tenderfoot rank up to Eagle. Further details of the event will be released by Scoutmaster Eugene Davis as plans are completed.

Area Social Notes

Audrey Beaudoin, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Edward Beaudoin, 12 Second Street, Saugerties, has arrived home after spending the summer taking courses at State University College of Education at Plattsburgh. She will be home a week before going on to Metropolitan Hospital in New York City for the clinical part of her nurses training.

Her Supper Also Got Cold

Second Trip Is Too
Much for Parents
Of Girl Stowaway

NEW YORK (AP)—"Mom, I'm going out. Keep supper warm. I'll be right back."

Marion did not get back in time for supper.

Holland This Time

She is in Holland, having stowed away on the Holland-America liner Rotterdam.

"She did it again," said Marion's mother, "and this is it."

Marion, a dark-haired, pretty girl who studied in Europe and can talk fast in several languages, did "it" the first time last year.

On July 14, 1960, she bought a 50-cent visitor's pass and went aboard the French liner Liberte. She didn't get off again until the ship had reached Le Havre.

Last time, Marion sent her parents a cable from France asking them to pay her passage. Her father, importer Henry Swaab, did so willingly to get Marion back.

This time, running true to form, Marion sent her parents a cable from the vessel reading simply: "I'm aboard the Rotterdam. Please deposit money with the steamship company. Please wire spending money."

"Not this time," said Mrs. Swaab today. "She needs a lesson. If we pay her way again, next time maybe she'll go to Japan."

No Easy Decision

The decision was not an easy one for the Swaabs to make. The family, which came here from Holland 10 years ago, is a close-knit one. Marion is the only child.

"It's harder for us than for her," said Mrs. Swaab. "But she has to learn. There's nothing the matter with her. Last time we had her examined by all sorts of doctors and psychiatrists. She's perfectly healthy."

"It's just that Marion is thoroughly irresponsible," Mrs. Swaab continued. "She lives in a little dream world. Everything has come easy for her—good clothes, nice friends, a good job. People like her."

"She's pretty," the mother added—not without a faint touch of pride. "She has a pleasant personality, and she can talk you into anything, anything at all."

What about the Holland-America line? What does it plan to do with the pretty young stowaway? Said a line spokesman:

"I haven't the faintest idea."

Scottish Editor Dies

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
GLASGOW, Scotland (AP) — George Blake, 67, Scottish editor and novelist, died Tuesday. Between the two world wars Blake was editor of John O'London's Weekly and the now defunct Strand Magazine. His best-known novel was a story of Clydeside called "The Shipbuilders."

$600 Given Town
Of Wawarsing for
Remedial Reading

ALBANY—The Town of Wawarsing has been allocated $600 in state aid for a youth service project for a 12-month period, it was announced today by Alexander Aldrich, director of the New York State Division for Youth.

An application for state aid submitted by Edwin Chase, supervisor, indicates that the town will spend a total of $1,210.16 during the year to provide a remedial reading program.

Facilities to be used include Central School District school building.

The program is under direction of Vincent P. Gillen, Ellenville.

Killed in Collision

FORT MILLER, N.Y. (AP)—A mother and her daughter were killed Tuesday when their automobile and a tractor-trailer truck collided head-on. State Police said the women were passing north car.

They were Mrs. Ethel Reed, about 70, of Ridley Park, Pa., and her daughter, Mrs. Eleanor Creegan, about 50, of North Adams, Mass. Troopers said the women were bound for Lake George when the accident occurred on Route 4, near this Washington County community.

Approves Trucker Lights Program In Safety Drive

ALBANY—A plan whereby truckers will keep their lights on—both day and night—over the Labor Day weekend to remind the public to drive safely has won the support of Motor Vehicle Commissioner William S. Hulst.

The campaign is sponsored by the American Trucking Association, and its 50 affiliated state trucking associations.

The plan calls for truck drivers to keep their lights on, both day and night, from 4 p. m. Friday, until 8 a. m., Tuesday, Sept. 5.

"Generally speaking, truck drivers are among the best drivers on our highways," said Commissioner Hulst.

"Their warning over this particularly dangerous weekend should count for something as far as the general public is concerned."

An industry spokesman explained the drive's purpose this way:

"In effect, our Truck Lights on for Safety campaign will say 'Let's make this the safest holiday of the decade.'"

Said Commissioner Hulst: "Whenever any motorist sees a truck with its lights on, it should be an effective reminder that trouble can develop anywhere along the road, and that only by constant caution can a motorist expect to get through the weekend without an accident."

Best of Rules Are Exceptions

BY OSWALD JACOBY
Written for Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

One of the things that make the game of contract bridge so baffling to the student is that the teachers give him any number of nice rules to follow and then throw exception after exception at him.

The student won't be so confused if he can learn that most exceptions are made for common sense reasons.

Two of these rules are: "Third hand high" and "Cover an honor with an honor."

Now take a look at the North and East hands only. Your partner opens the eight of spades and the queen is played from dummy. If you follow rules blindly you will put on the king. South will win the trick with the ace, cash the jack and 10 at his convenience and eventually make a fourth spade trick with dummy's nine spot.

Suppose you use some common sense and figure out what your partner's lead shows. It can't be fourth best. He would open jack from ace, jack, 10, eight. It might be the top of nothing, so declarer is marked with all the high spades. Hence, you play low and hold declarer to three spade tricks.

It doesn't make much difference this time. Declarer has nine tricks in any event, but if you get in the habit of saving tricks you will win at bridge.

Final Park Band Concert Tonight

The final park band concert of the 1961 summer series will be held at Academy Green, Kingston, tonight at 8 p. m. In the event of rain the concert will be held the following Wednesday.

The concert is sponsored by Local 215, American Federation of Musicians, Kingston, and is provided for through a grant from the Recording Industries' Trust Fund.

John Cole, local 215 president and Secretary Michael Marchuk said the local is happy to cooperate with the city in presenting these summer band concerts. Admission is free.

Marlin Morrette is the band director.

Federal Judge Rules:Plane Should Be Returned But Not Till Appeals Over

NORFOLK, Va. (AP)—A federal judge says the hijacked Cuban freighter Bahia de Nipe is protected by the doctrine of sovereign immunity and should be returned to Cuba — but not until claimants against it have exhausted all their avenues of appeal.

The judicial branch of the federal government "should avoid any conflict with the executive in the field of international relations," U.S. District Judge Walter E. Hoffman said Tuesday night in supporting the U.S. State Department's decision to return the 3,800-ton vessel to the Castro government.

But he stayed execution of his order to permit anticipated appeals to the U.S. 4th Circuit Court of Appeals on Sept. 5.

After that, the case could be taken to the U.S. Supreme Court by the persons and firms which have sought to have the sugar-laden ship sold to satisfy alleged indebtedness of more than $1,272,000.

The judge had said Saturday that, regardless of his decision, the ship must remain in Chesapeake Bay in possession of the Coast Guard while the issues are under appeal.

Ten days ago, Secretary of State Dean Rusk said "the prompt release of the vessel is necessary to secure the observance of the rights and obligations of the United States."

The Bahia de Nipe was bound for a Soviet Baltic port when her master and 10 crewmen overpowered and imprisoned 23 other crewmen and sailed her into Chesapeake Bay in search of political asylum.

A day after the ship arrived, Aug. 18, two Philadelphia longshoremen with claims against the nationalized Cuban company which manages the ship sought to have her attached and sold to satisfy their claims.

The list of claimants grew rapidly, including pleas for back wages put in by the 11 defecting crewmen. The Coast Guard, acting on orders from Washington, refused to permit a deputy U.S. marshal to serve attachment papers on the freighter.

Last Saturday, Hoffman ruled orally the Coast Guard exceeded its authority when it prevented the deputy marshal from carrying out his job. On Monday, he said President Kennedy exceeded his authority in instructing the Coast Guard to repulse the attachment efforts.

In his memorandum, however, Hoffman said the doctrine of sovereign immunity—which protects a government's property from seizure—prevents the claimants from any benefits of attaching the ship.

2 Persons Hurt In Esopus Crash

Two persons were injured Tuesday at 3:40 p. m. when the car in which they were riding was in collision with another vehicle on Route 9W near Black Creek Road, Esopus.

Highland State Police said the cars were operated by Mrs. Helen Joan Dunne, 42, of Seaforth, N. Y., and Claire Janus, 55, of 168 Pine Street, Corning.

Clair Janus received a laceration of the left forearm and injuries to the right knee. A passenger in her car, Robert Edward Duesler, of Little Falls, suffered abrasions of the left knee, troopers said.

Both vehicles were traveling south and the Corning woman was attempting to turn into a private road at the time of the collision, according to state police.

ing out his job. On Monday, he said President Kennedy exceeded his authority in instructing the Coast Guard to repulse the attachment efforts.

In his memorandum, however, Hoffman said the doctrine of sovereign immunity—which protects a government's property from seizure—prevents the claimants from any benefits of attaching the ship.

Court Order Signed Against Spray Firm Tricky Promises

Men who invested more than $7,000 in lawn spray equipment got soaked as a result of allegedly fraudulent promises that they could earn as much as $300 a week, Attorney General Louis J. Lefkowitz charged today.

The Attorney General said he has obtained an order in Supreme Court, New York County, restraining General Spray Service, Inc., of 156 Katonah Avenue, Katonah, N. Y. and its president from making advertising promises they do not intend to keep. Justice Morris E. Spector signed the order.

Francis H. Hoge Jr., also of 156 Katonah Avenue, Katonah, N. Y., president of the corporation, consented to the order but denied the allegations contained in the court papers.

Contract Price $7,850

According to a petition filed in court by Assistant Attorney General James Principiotta, General Spray Service, Inc., advertised in newspapers in major cities throughout New York State that those who purchased or leased a lawn spray device could earn as much as $300 a week.

The advertisements also promised that the company would buy back the machine and equipment if the purchaser or lessee could not earn up to $300 a week. The contract for the purchase of a truck, fully equipped with lawn spray equipment, required a minimum down payment of $2,850. The total purchase price stated in the contract was $7,850.

The petition asserts that the representation of potential earnings was not based on previous experience. The representation that the company would buy back the lawn spray equipment sold to purchasers at a "reasonably depreciated" price was false and fraudulent.

Not Market Value

"The 'reasonably depreciated' price was, in fact, a price arbitrarily established by the company without taking into consideration the true market value," the petition asserts.

The order enjoins the defendants from representing to the public that the purchasers or lessees of their lawn spray equipment will earn or realize $300 per week or any other amount in excess of that which is in fact customarily and regularly earned.

They are also enjoined from representing to the public that they will buy back lawn spray equipment sold to purchasers at the price paid by the purchasers unless the corporation in fact buys back the equipment.

Consider Boat Ban In Falls Waters Due to Tragedies

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Army Engineers and Canadian authorities are considering a ban on boats in the vicinity of Niagara Falls because of tragedies and near-tragedies that have occurred there.

The engineers told Sen. Kenneth B. Keating, R-N.Y., they were considering creating a restricted zone in the Niagara River below Gill Creek. They said they understood Canada was considering prohibiting unauthorized vessels from using Canadian waters three miles above the falls.

In a letter to Keating, the engineers said they had fixed Sept. 11 as a deadline to receive views on creating the zone before submitting a report to the Secretary of the Army for decision.

Mayor Calvin L. Keeler of Niagara Falls, N.Y., and that city's council had suggested restrictions for private boats on the river. The Coast Guard would protect the area if the zone were created.

representing to the public that they will buy back lawn spray equipment sold to purchasers at the price paid by the purchasers unless the corporation in fact buys back the equipment.

Hollywood News, Views

By BOB THOMAS
AP Movie-TV Writer
HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Feeling hurried, harried and harassed? Dr. Rosalind Russell has the solution.

It's astonishingly simple: get up a half-hour early in the morning.

This prescription came out as I was trying to plumb the dynamo that is Russell. At an age when many women are content to rattle knitting needles, she maintains a bone-crushing schedule.

This year she is hurtling through three diverse and difficult film roles: in "Majority One," "Five Finger Exercise" and "Gypsy." She plays a Jewish matron, a five-letter female and a voracious stage mother, respectively, and she'll have to dance and belt songs as the latter.

She still manages to maintain civic work, a writing career and a serene household for husband Freddie Brison and their son Lance, 18.

How does she do it? "By rising a half-hour before I normally would," she explained. "You'd be surprised what a difference that makes. The morning is a peaceful time, and you have a chance to think over your whole day. You can have a relaxed and sizable breakfast, which is very important for getting you through the day."

"You don't miss that extra half-hour of sleep. Sleep is highly overrated. I used to worry because I would lie awake at night. I told my doctor and he said, 'Several million other people are lying awake at the same time.' He told me to get up and sort the linen or straighten out a drawer or do some other useful but dull task, then go back to bed. I tried it, and it works."

Roz has another regimen to keep life in the proper proportion. That's a quiet hour at the end of the day. She and Freddie sit down for cocktails and conversation. There are no interruptions and no shop talk, even though he is her producer on her current "Five Finger Exercise."

"We don't talk movie business unless it is something funny," she said. "Mostly we talk about people."

be interested in a happy pair of grandparents, both of whom took up the study of art, in their late years. In fact, William J. Eisner, was at one time a golf enthusiast but gave it up to study art with Sidney Laufman, whose work he once admired in Milch Gallery's window on 57th

Very often parents sacrifice much to send their children to college and then find they have become strangers because of the difference in education, that did not happen to the Eisner family, or I met one of the daughters and could see the close relationship of parent and child. Mr. and Mrs. Eisner are not amateur painters. They are recognized artists and their work has been accepted in many of the well known galleries. Their paintings are interesting and colorful and one can feel contentment in such works as "Chess Players" which is now in the Sidney Kaufman collection. Gatherings of this kind are so meeting people like the Eisners, who are I feel what makes this country, strong, powerful, happy and free.

NOW'S THE TIME to save more truck dollars on the more-for-your-dollar trucks!

SAVE! You just can't beat August buys for saving. It's the time of year when Chevrolet dealers traditionally pull all the stops. You'll find sweeter-than-ever savings waiting for you on every '61 Chevy truck—from the nimble Corvair 95's, through the easy-haulin' Fleetside pickups, right up to the mighty medium- and heavy-duty jobs. Come in and save a bundle!

SAVE! You just can't beat Chevy trucks for working. With easier riding independent front suspension, Chevrolet trucks work harder and stay young longer. And that adds up to more savings for you. Loads ride easier, drivers stay fresher, the truck lasts longer—because Chevy I.F.S. filters out shock that racks other trucks. You get more work, more hauls, for your truck dollars!

SAVE! And for the frosting on the cake—you just can't beat Chevy trucks at trade-in time, either. The intrinsic value, the superior worth, that Chevrolet builds into every truck, shows up big when it's time to trade. Latest official industry reports prove that Chevrolet trucks lead in trade-in value, week after week after week, over every major competitor in Chevy's price range.*

Fashion Show of Israeli Designs Scheduled By Kingston Hadassah for 1st Fall Meeting

A fashion show of exciting Israeli designs will be presented by the Kingston Chapter of Hadassah for the season's first general meeting.

The paid-up membership meeting is set for 8:30 p. m. Monday, Sept. 18, at Temple Emanuel. Twenty-eight fashionable suits, chic cocktail dresses and elaborately embroidered gowns, designed and made in Hadassah's Alice Seligsberg Vocational High School in Jerusalem, will be modeled by members of the local group. Mrs. Arthur Landesman is vice president in charge of program.

Plans for the fashion show were announced at a board meeting Monday evening, Aug. 28, in the home of Mrs. Herbert Siller, Flower Lane, with Mrs. Arthur H. London presiding.

Mrs. Landesman noted that the high-styled creations reflect and advance the fashions of Paris and Milan. The Seligsberg High School is run by Hadassah under its vocational education program in Israel; the local chapter contributes to this project through its spring and fall "New and Nearly New Shops" in Kingston.

In addition to fashion training, the school offers courses in homemaking, secretarial skills, dental and laboratory assistants' work, and arts and crafts. Other vocational education projects include the Brandeis Vocational workshops for fine mechanics, precision instruments and printing, a guidance bureau and a rural vocational center. Hadassah also conducts extensive medical research, social service, youth rehabilitation and land reclamation programs in Israel.

Reenrollment of members in advance of the paid-up membership meeting is now going on under the co-chairmanship of Mrs. Milton Dubin and Mrs. Herbert Siller; Mrs. Philip Rosdol is financial secretary.

A party for prospective new members will be held Thursday, Sept. 7, in the home of Mrs. Murray Fletcher, Ringtop Road.

Hadassah will sponsor a showing of the film "Exodus" at the Community Theater in October. Mrs. Robert S. Yallum and Mrs. Fletcher are in charge of arrangements.

A monthly study group will be formed under the chairmanship of Mrs. Yallum; the first meeting will be held in October.

Chairmen named for the year include the Mmes. Sidney Treinkman, and William Buchbinder, Hadassah Medical Organization advertising page; Landesman, program; David Kline bulletin; Victor Randel and S. J. Schneider, telephone squad; Sherman Kent, and Charles Forst, Youth Aliyah; Manuel Lipton and Robert A. Ronder, Jewish National Fund; Arthur Motzkin, Alvin Motzkin and Stanley Kaplan, donor; George Starkman, medical center; Robert Davis, life membership and wills and bequests; Alfred Horowitz, vocational education; Louis Epstein, trees; Yallum, education; Harold Newman and Robert Nadler, HMO benefit; Herbert Gertner, Eye Bank Day; Morris Berman and Maurice Crystal, refreshments; Louis Ellenbogen, sunshine; Walter Suskind and Melvin Navy, new members; Harry Feldman, Youth Aliyah Treasurer.

Officers include Mrs. Jay Melton, treasurer; Mrs. William Buchbinder, corresponding secretary; Mrs. Arthur Kaufman, recording secretary; Mrs. Paul Johnson, board secretary; and Mrs. Jerome Strugatz, secretary to the president.

A WAY OF ESCAPE

Q: I have just started what I thought would be a very pleasant two weeks vacation with friends who have a house in the country. Instead, it has turned into a nightmare and I am appealing to you to let me know how I can get out of staying. Last night after I had fallen asleep I was awakened by something crawling over me. I jumped out of bed and put the light on and low and behold—bed bugs! I was horrified and couldn't go back into the bed. I spent the night trying to sleep on a chair. I simply can't endure this for two weeks, so please tell me what I can do.

A: Go out and telephone your family to send you a telegram asking you to come home. (Be very careful to examine your clothes as you pack them).

Bridegroom's Family Disapprove of Alcoholic Beverage

Q: My daughter is to be married soon and her fiancé's family do not approve of anything strong to drink. Our friends and relatives, on the other hand, would think it very strange if we didn't serve at least one glass of champagne with which to toast the bride and groom. Would it be proper to serve champagne knowing his family disapproves? If not, what do you suggest as a substitute?

A: Since you are giving the wedding and you are the host, you may serve whatever you please. You should, however, have sparkling gingerale or other non-alcoholic beverages for the "drys."

A Wedding by Candlelight

Q: Just what is a candlelight service? I so often read in the society column of our local newspaper that a bride was married at a candlelight service and I am curious to know what this is.

A: A wedding at dusk in a church at which candles are placed at the end of each pew down the whole length of the center aisle. No electricity is used.

Should the tissue papers be removed before mailing wedding invitations? The answer to this question as well as correct wedding form will be found in the new Emily Post Institute booklet, "Wedding Invitations and Announcements." To obtain a copy, send ten cents in coin and a stamped, self-addressed envelope to The Emily Post Institute, care of The Freeman.

The Emily Post Institute cannot answer personal mail, but all questions of general interest are answered in this column.

MRS. CONSTANTINE D. PLAISSAY JR.

Miss Diane Hume Doyle of Kerhonkson Weds Constantine D. Plaisay Jr. on August 26

St. Mary's and St. Andrew's Church, Ellenville, was the scene of the wedding of Miss Diane Hume Doyle of Kerhonkson and Constantine D. Plaisay Jr. on Saturday, Aug. 26. The Rev. Walter Fagin officiated.

Daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert H. Doyle of Kerhonkson, the bride was given in marriage by her father. She wore a gown of white silk organza banded with Swiss embroidery and fashioned with a bell train. Her veil of fingertip length was of English silk illusion. She carried white orchids and Stephanotis. Miss Marilyn D. Doyle of Kerhonkson was maid of honor for her sister. She wore a sapphire blue silk chiffon gown and carried pink roses. Bridesmaid, Jessie H. Doyle, was also gowned in sapphire blue silk chiffon and carried pink roses.

Bernard J. Brennan IV of Lake Minnekaqua was best man. Ushers were Stephen LaFalco of Kerhonkson and Arthur Brennan of Lake Minnekaqua.

For her daughter's wedding, Mrs. Doyle wore a French blue raw silk ensemble with matching accessories. The bridegroom's mother was attired in a beige print silk dress with matching accessories.

A reception for 90 guests was held at Cragmoor Inn following the ceremony.

For a wedding trip to Canada and the New England States, the bride chose a traveling costume of navy blue silk shantung. The couple will make their home in Beechhurst, L. I.

The former Miss Doyle attended Oneonta State University College of Education and graduated from Krissler's Business Institute. She is employed by Investors Diversified Services Inc. The bridegroom, son of Mr. and Mrs. Constantine D. Plaisay Sr. of Whitestone, is a graduate of Archbishop Molloy School and attended Fairfield University. He is employed by Plaza Florist Inc., New York City.

Mrs. Louis Wojcio Is Guest at Shower Thursday Evening

Mrs. Louis Wojcio of 156 Washington Avenue was guest of honor at a surprise stork shower given at the home of Mrs. Peter Wojcio, 29 Park Street, last Thursday 7:30 p. m. Hostesses were the Mmes. Peter Wojcio and John Wojcio. The gifts were arranged in a carriage decorated in green and yellow with streamers leading to the chair of honor. Many lovely and useful gifts were received.

Attending were the Mmes. Mirielle Winchell, Vincent Manuel, Fred Gentile, Sharon Adin, Ann Christiana, Richard Terpening, Stanley Wojcio, Anthony Marrelli, A. R. Gafney, John Burns III, Edward Anderson, Martin Mooney, Thomas Lewis, John Oris, Fred Orr, Peter Wojcio and John Wojcio.

Also the Mmes. Dolores Manuel, Lorraine Winchell, Lucia Wojcio, Linda Wojcio and Lori Wojcio.

Unable to attend but sending gifts were the Mmes. Mary Scully, J. D. Schneck, Joseph Kolari, John Burns, Ronald Burns, Richard Barringer, John Terpening and Miss Diane Marrelli.

Dutchess College Instructor Named

Dr. James F. Hall, president, announced today the appointment of Robert J. Dolansky as an instructor to the staff of Dutchess Community College.

Mr. Dolansky, of Schenectady, will assume his duties in September when he will be responsible for teaching courses in business technology.

He received his BA degree in accounting from St. Bernardine of Siena, Loudonville, and his MS degree in education from the State University College of Education at Albany. He previously was associated with retailing businesses in New York State and with the General Electric Company, Schenectady.

Mr. Dolansky is a member of the United Business Education Association and Eastern Business Teachers Association.

New Paltz Faculty Member to Exhibit At Albany Institute

Simultaneously with the Arts and Cultural Centers Exhibition with which the Albany Institute of History and Art is opening its season, is a second exhibition of sculpture by college art faculty, who are teaching in the vicinity of Albany.

Included in the show are Earl Pardon of Skidmore College, Lee Hirsche of Williams College, George Rickey of Rensselaer Polytechnic Institute, Benjamin Karp of State University College of Education in New Paltz, William Wilson of State College of Albany.

The media used are wood, stone, terra cotta, metal, papier-mache.

George Rickey, formerly of Tulane University faculty and a current Guggenheim Fellow will be teaching next year at RPI in the school of architecture.

William Wilson came to Albany after traveling in the South Seas. Hirsche, prize winner in Art U.S.A., 1959, does both sculpture and drawing and was represented in the 1961 Regional Exhibition by Artists of the Upper Hudson with a three dimensional work in paper and wire on plywood.

Health for All

SAFE TO HAVE AROUND

Mrs. C. can't get a job as a waitress when it is known that she has been in a TB hospital. Mr. W. moved with his wife and four young children to a new neighborhood where no one would know that he had had tuberculosis. Joan T., aged 15, has been warned by her family not to mention her previous TB to the neighbors or to her school friends.

These are real cases. Many people feel that they would suffer if people know that they had TB. Yet the TB patient who has been treated until he is non-infectious is perfectly safe to have around, as long as he continues his treatment to make sure of no relapse. A patient who has been discharged from a TB hospital or has been told by his private doctor that he is inactive cannot infect anybody else.

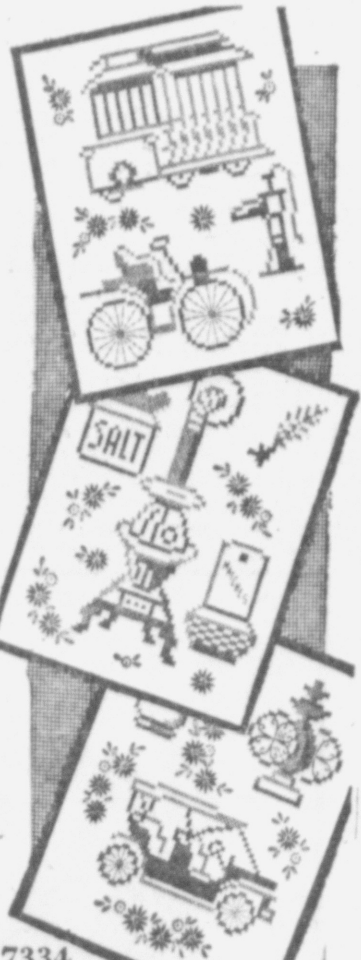

Mrs. C., Mr. W., and Joan are not the ones to worry about. The real danger of TB infection comes from those people who have active disease and are not getting treatment for it. Some of these do not know they have active disease. Others know but won't stay in the hospital long enough to get over the infectious stage. Baby sitters, teachers, parents and grandparents may pass their infection on to children, perhaps the most pathetic victims.

Protect your family. Get a yearly TB check-up—tuberculin test or X-ray.

(This column is sponsored in the interest of better health by: The Ulster County TB and Health Association, 124 Green Street, Kingston.)

To save time in looking for something in your home freezer, label the packages on both sides. Use different color tape for chicken, pork, beef and other meats.

Shirt repeats skirt color. Shaggy cardigan teams with nylon stretch pants (right). These young fashions are by Cromwell.

ASK THE DESIGNER by gaile dugas

By Gaile Dugas

Dear Gaile: How long is this droopy, low-waisted look going to go on any way? I, for one, am sick and tired of it. And it seems that's all I can find in the stores. I'm not six feet tall and built like a broomstick. I'm just a little over five feet, somewhat plump and I like to let people know that I still have a waistline. Is there some law against belts? When do I get a break? I do like to look smart.—J. G.

Dear J. H. If present fashion trends are an indication, this look is almost over. This is what designer Hannah Troy has to say about this matter.

"Cheer up. The look you like is coming back though not in exactly the same form. It won't be fitted in the sense that the old sheath was but it be a lot more fitted than it has been recently. The new lines will suggest the body lines rather than fitting snugly. So you can plan happily on displaying that waistline."

Dear Gaile: Why don't those hat designers give a little thought to our hairdos when they're thinking up those new hat styles? I love hats but I don't buy many because they always ruin my set. I liked the pillbox because I could just perch it on the back of my head.

Now, I can see the cloche is in. This is just the end!—Mrs. R. M. W.

Dear Mrs. R. M. W.: Oh, it isn't as bad as all that. In fact, the picture looks fairly bright. Just listen to what New York designer Sally Victor has to say on this matter:

"Actually, we do take the new hair styles into consideration when we design hats. This fall, particularly, there's a hat style for every hairdo: shallow, deep, beret, turban, cloche, miniature, toque or roller. Naturally, the cloche has been emphasized because it makes fashion news. But even this style has been done in many versions, all of them easy to wear."

"If the pillbox was your fa-

4-H Club News Program Offers 6 Scholarships For Achievements

Six national scholarships of $400 each will be awarded to 4-H Club members next November. Awards will be based on outstanding work done in the 4-H field crops program, says the National 4-H Service Committee.

The top-ranking sextet will be selected from 48 state winners and all will be delegates to the 40th National 4-H Club Congress convening here November 26-30 at the Conrad Hilton Hotel. Around 1,550 boys and girls, winners in some 30 categories from every state, will attend the annual event accompanied by state 4-H Club leaders and other Cooperative Extension Service personnel.

Girls and boys who are "at the top of the class" in 4-H Club work will be candidates for national honors. An even dozen will be singled out for the national scholarship award, and the highest ranking boy or girl in the state will win an expense-paid trip to the National 4-H Club Congress opening here November 26, announces the National 4-H Service Committee.

The pinnacle of success for two will be crowned by a special award of a silverware set presented in the name of President John F. Kennedy, honorary chairman of the National 4-H Service Committee.

Winners of this highest award—a girl and boy—will be announced November 30, the final day of the 4-H congress. The 12 scholarship winners, however, will be named earlier in the week.

Focus on Health In Science World

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Vaccines in the Soviet Union, heart attacks in middle-aged smokers, and how to know a good fish when you see one are subjects for focus on health: Soviet Push Vaccines

The Soviet Union is pushing development of various vaccines against influenza, mumps and respiratory infections, say U.S. doctors after a recent trip to the U.S.S.R.

The Soviet Union is preparing a billion doses of live-virus, oral polio vaccine from seed viruses obtained from Dr. Albert Sabin. Some of these doses are to be offered to other countries, scientists report.

Most other Soviet vaccines reported also involve live viruses as opposed to killed virus vaccines used widely in the United States. Soviet researchers say they have a live-virus mumps vaccine which has been given to 50,000 children by injection with good response. The Heavy Smoker

Why are death rates from heart attacks among middle-aged men up to 1 1/2 times as high for heavy cigarette smokers as for non-smokers?

The American Heart Association's newsletter says a possible explanation may exist in a study by a Philadelphia research team. The team found that two cigarettes smoked within 10 minutes raised the level of some fats in the blood—and the effect lingered for at least 40 minutes.

Perhaps nicotine from smoking stimulates the nervous system and the adrenal glands to release a form of adrenalin that frees fats from storage areas in the body, researchers suggest.

It could explain why smokers have higher levels of cholesterol in their blood. Cholesterol is a blood fat which is suspected of contributing to heart disease by clogging and narrowing arteries. Good Fish or Bad?

During these hot summer days when the ardent fisherman in the family brings home his catch, you might ask for health's sake if he can tell a good fish from a spoiled one.

The Connecticut State Department of Health offers guides. Among them: Good fish have bright red gills, usually closed. Eyes are bright and full. Scales are adherent. Body is stiff and tail rigid. Flesh is firm. The fish sinks in water. Bad fish float, have dull, opaque eyes; pale gray or yellowish brown gills, a soft and limp feel.

Kingston High School will open in the morning Sept. 6 for former students and in the afternoon for those entering the school for the first time. M. Clifford Miller, principal, announced today.

Former students are due at 8:30 a. m., and after a shortened schedule will be dismissed at 11:45 a. m.

New students, including those who completed the eighth grade at the Myron J. Michael School, parochial schools and those who have moved into the area since the close of school in June, are to report at the high school auditorium at 12:30 p. m. They will be dismissed at 3:10 p. m.

No cafeteria service will be provided Wednesday. It will begin Thursday with the regular school sessions. The school day begins at 8:30 a. m., and ends at 3:10 p. m.

Principal Miller advised that all students who have moved into the area since the June closing of schools should report to the guidance office at the high school prior to the opening of school in order to plan their programs for the new school year.

Gail Russell Buried

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—Actress Gail Russell, 36, was buried Tuesday after private funeral services attended by several film stars, other friends and her family.

Miss Russell was found dead Sunday in a liquor bottle-strewn room of her West Los Angeles home.

"You know as I know that Gail Russell had a problem," said Dr. Leo C. Kline, Methodist pastor who conducted the services.

"You also probably know how desperately she tried to solve it," he added.

Actor Under Knife

MUNICH, Germany (AP)—German movie actor Horst Buchholz, seriously injured in a road accident, was operated on today and doctors said afterward his condition was "satisfactory considering the circumstances."

After the abdominal operation, Buchholz also regained consciousness for the first time since his cream-colored American convertible crashed into a tree at high speed in a Munich suburb Tuesday night. Police thought the actor might have been tired and fallen asleep.

Carpeting Wools Topic for Lions Meeting Tuesday

The Lions Club luncheon Tuesday was highlighted by the special guest speaker, Patrick J. Holland of Colonial Carpet Company. Holland spoke on "Wools in Carpating."

Wool for good carpating must come from sheep raised in high altitude, cold climate areas, according to Holland. Sheep raised in such areas produce a long, strong wool fiber, which can be loomed into fine carpating.

His other observations were: Since the United States has few areas with the proper climatical conditions it is necessary for American carpet manufacturers to import wool fibers needed. Until 1939, most imported wool for carpating came from China and Outer-Mongolia. With the beginning of World War II, and the subsequent lowering of the Bamboo Curtain, this market has been closed to the American industry. Because of the shortage caused by the loss of the oriental market, manufacturers had to turn to a new source of supply. New Zealand and Australia have provided some of the necessary wool, but the demand has not been met. Therefore, carpet manufacturers have turned to developing synthetic fibers such as Acrylon, Nylon 501 and Orlon.

The new synthetic fibers, when added to wool, will increase a carpet's expectancy. Yet, a synthetic carpet lacks many of the traits which have made wool carpet famous, Holland said. Good carpating requires good wool, the speaker added.

Richard Kalish, past president of Kingston Lions Club, also gave a short talk on "The Meaning of Membership."

Other guests present were Dr. Frank Hall, Commissioner of Health of Ulster County; Fred H. DuBois of New Paltz, Ulster County treasurer and Dave Ralby of Manhattan Shirt Co.

The Central had planned to embargo most less-than-carload shipments, beginning Sept. 5. The ICC told the Central Saturday it would have to use a different procedure and file for new tariffs by posting a 30-day public notice. The commission then still could suspend proposed tariffs if it found they were unjustified. In a petition Tuesday, the Central argued that the board of three commission employees which issued the ICC order did not have jurisdiction. The road asked that the case be referred to a division of the ICC.

FOOD FOR AMERICANS

Lion-Size Meat Loaf Feeds Crowd

LABOR DAY guests, if you're planning for a lot of them, will meet their match in the huge lion-size meat loaf.

GAYNOR MADDOX
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

If all your cousins, uncles and aunts, as well as their children, plan a big Labor Day get-together, then this lion-size meat loaf will be a blessing to all concerned. It will serve 24.

Sweet corn, now abundant, sliced tomatoes and a hot salad of garden greens, hot rolls and lots of ice cream, along with the massive meat loaf, will guarantee that a good and well-fed time will be had by all.

Lion-Size Meat Loaf

(Yield: 24 servings)

6 pounds ground beef

1 tablespoon monosodium

glutamate

1 teaspoon pepper

2 tall cans (12/3 cups each)

evaporated milk

1/2 cup catsup

6 cups soft bread crumbs

1/2 teaspoon each, thyme, savory and marjoram

1 large onion, finely chopped

Sprinkle beef with monosodium glutamate, salt and pepper. Pour evaporated milk and catsup over bread crumbs in deep mixing bowl. Add herbs, beat until blended, mix in onion. Add ground beef mixture; mix lightly

until blended. Turn into a 16x

4x4-inch loaf pan. Bake in a moderate oven (350 degrees F.)

1 hour, 45 minutes. To serve, garnish with onion rings.

Note: If desired, meat loaf may be baked in two 9x5x3 inch loaf pans.

Steel Firm Lays Off 360 Workers At Mill and Mine

TROY, N.Y. (AP) — About 160 workers at the Republican Steel Corp. blast furnace here and about 200 at the company's iron ore mine at Lyon Mountain the Adirondacks will be laid off tomorrow in a temporary shutdown of the facilities.

The company said Tuesday in announcing the shutdown it had not received sufficient orders from foundries to continue production economically.

"Operations will be resumed just as soon as the demand for ore from the mine makes it possible to do so," W. A. Blomstran, Adirondack district manager, said at Mineville, the district's headquarters.

The mine has been employing 250 men and the blast furnace 195. The company said supervisory and clerical employees would not be affected.

The shutdown will be the third this year. The earlier closings also were attributed to a lack of orders.

The company closed its mining operations at Mineville more than a year ago. About 650 workers had been employed there.

Grahamsville School To Open on Sept. 6

Approximately 700 students are expected to answer the school bell at Tri Valley Central School, Grahamsville, when the school year of 1961-62 begins Wednesday, Sept. 6. Classes will be resumed at 8:20 a. m. on that date, and will be dismissed at noon, to permit scheduled faculty meetings.

New students will be registered during this week from 1:30 to 3:30 p. m. Such registrants should report to the elementary school office or the high school guidance office, depending upon the grade in which they will be enrolled.

Information as to bus routes, if not known, may be secured by phoning the business office of the school.

Fire Assn. Is Asking For Fallout Garages

SCHROON LAKE, N.Y. (AP)—Firemen and their equipment need protection from radioactive fallout if they are to be useful in the event of a nuclear attack, a firemen's association contends.

The State Permanent Firemen's Association adopted a resolution yesterday calling on the Legislature to require localities to furnish firemen protective clothing and build fallout garages for fire-trucks.

The association at the close of its three-day convention elected Lucien De Socio of Auburn president. He succeeds George J. Hof-fis of Glens Falls.

Other officers: Charles J. Young, Olean, first vice president; Harry Reynolds, Canandaigua, second vice president, and Robert E. Mills, Syracuse, secretary-treasurer.

Glancing Over TV Bill of Fare

By CYNTHIA LOWRY
AP TV-Radio Writer

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Authors read books; movie stars usually are movie fans; stage actors go to the theater. But most of the people who make television shows rarely or never watch TV.

This curious and sad situation may account for the quality of some programs.

Over a four-week period, this reporter has talked to scores of actors, writers, producers and directors. None has confessed freely to spending time in front of the set; some actually have boasted they never even look at their own shows.

They make it sound like a chore and excuse themselves by saying there really isn't time. But there does seem to be time for them to attend movies, follow their favorite baseball club and toast their skins beside pools that TV paid for.

The creator-writer-producer of a forthcoming TV series was describing his show in the usual pre-season terms: "fresh, vigorous, realistic, dynamic."

Most Would Be Eggheads
At my suggestion that theme and format seemed dreadfully reminiscent, he waved a condescending hand.

"That's the real problem," he said, wrinkling his brows dramatically. "Very few of us who are producing and creating new shows are what you'd call avid TV viewers. Most of us, in fact, would be classified in that tiny egghead group that enjoys the really cultural type of program and supports educational television. It's quite hard to guess what the public likes."

Another young man whose substantial income is derived entirely from commercial television confessed with a proud chuckle that the one TV set in his three-car, heated-pool home blew the picture tube five months ago and he has no plans to have it repaired.

They Don't Miss It
"We haven't even missed it," he said. "Not even the children."

The star of an enormously successful series has never owned a television set—and has never seen his show except to watch the unfinished, rough programs at the studio. Or so he alleges.

One of the fall season's little ironies is the discovery by Richard Boone that he will be competing occasionally against himself this fall. CBS' "Have Gun, Will Travel" will run against NBC's Saturday night movie feature—and Boone has found that he was an actor in three of the first nine vintage movies to be shown.

"I hope the audience will find I'm a better actor today than I was 10 years ago," said Paladine.

Richards Heads For Houston Club

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Paul Richards, heading for a five-year term as general manager of the National League's new Houston club, said today he will go along with the Baltimore Orioles if and when they ask him to finish out the current season.

Richards, who took over the helm of the Orioles in 1954 after leaving the Chicago White Sox, announced his resignation as Orioles' field manager just before the club's doubleheader here with the Angels.

The announcement came as no surprise. It was rumored for several weeks he was considering an attractive offer from Houston, which begins play in an expanded National League next season.

Richards, announcing he was resigning, said the contract with Houston had not been finalized but that Houston officials had agreed to his general demands. "I have asked that three additional conditions be included in the contract and as yet the Houston people haven't agreed to them," he said.

A spokesman for the new Texas team, however, seemed fairly certain Richards and the club could get together. "We should have an announcement within 48 hours if Richards is relieved from his contract at Baltimore," the spokesman said.

Contacted in New York, Joseph Iglehart, Orioles' board chairman, said he intended to ask Richards to remain with the Orioles until the season is completed. "I'm sure he will," Iglehart said. Informed of this, Richards said he would stay with Baltimore if requested to do so.

Today's Business Mirror

By SAM DAWSON

AP Business News Analyst

NEW YORK (AP)—You walk into the small-loan office and the man asks you some questions and looks you over quizzically. He decides if you're a good risk or a bad risk. How?

What must you have to be classified with the good guys? Well, under one theory, it could be such things as a phone, a spouse, a yen for a home of your own, or a fairly lengthy stay at your present address and in your present job.

The old-time credit manager, however, doesn't buy this necessarily. He will tell you that beyond such obvious things as your credit record, he really has to rely to a great extent on instinct.

A lot of persons who needed some quick cash have found this ordeal by instinct tough enough.

Statistics New Obstacle

But now you are more and more likely to run up against a new obstacle: statistics. And this means that a lot of those who would have passed the test if the credit manager stuck to his instinct alone will be turned down today if he consults his charts.

Proponents of this law of probabilities or averages say the new method of grading applicants is proving that a high percentage of those that the credit manager in the loan office would have passed are actually bad risks.

Many credit managers don't believe this, anyone than you will if you flunk the test. But converts to the slide rule approach to credit say it has proved itself by the one thing the small-loan business appreciates most—a drop in the number of total losses and also in accounts that cost too much to collect.

Donald L. Barnes Jr., executive vice president of the American Investment Co., St. Louis, Mo., predicts the new credit scoring system should cut its losses by 25 per cent. Last year it made $413 million in loans and had to write off $7 million as bad debts. He hopes the new system will cut this loss by $2 million a year.

14,000 Accounts Studied

Barnes says the system is based on a study of 14,000 accounts. And if you want to rate yourself as a good risk, or a bad risk, here's what the averages revealed:

A phone was found in the residence of 31 per cent more of the good accounts than in the bad ones. Now the company definitely takes the possession of a phone into account when deciding whether to make a loan.

A married applicant was found to be a much better risk than an unmarried person. This confirmed previous lending experience, but to a greater degree perhaps than formerly believed.

And a significantly higher percentage of good accounts owned their own home or were buying one on a forever-and-forever basis. The percentage of bad accounts among home owners was far lower.

This may seem grossly unfair to a bachelor or spinster who prefers to, or has to, live in rented quarters and for any number of reasons cannot have, or doesn't want to have, a telephone.

But Barnes insists that figures don't lie.

Method of Refund Of Taxes Explained

There are 680 taxpayers of the Albany District, Internal Revenue Service, who have $48,051 in tax refunds coming.

The undeliverable refunds are those that were sent to taxpayers but did not reach them because of change of address or for other reasons, such as change of names, etc.

James O'Hara, district director of the Albany District, in announcing the figures today, states that "It is not necessary for you to consult or engage the services of a locating or searching service or anyone else to obtain information with respect to your check."

"All you need to do is to contact the district director in whose office your return is filed, establish your identity and your right to receive the check. Your Social Security Card alone will not establish identity."

The checks range in amounts from 80 cents to $683. O'Hara said, "If you are entitled to a refund check on the tax return you filed this year and you have not received it, and you have not received a letter from the Internal Revenue Service advising that your return is being examined, then write me at 161 Washington Avenue, Albany 1, New York."

When writing, a taxpayer should state his or her name and address exactly as it appears on his or her return.

Expect Record Field For Tennis Tourney

SPORTS

By CHARLES J. TIANO
Freeman Sports Editor

Gerry McDonough of Kingston will be among 59 varsity candidates invited by University of Connecticut Coach Bob Ingalls to the Uconn campus for football workouts that start on Sept. 4.

McDonough, former All-DUSO quarterback, played chiefly on defense last year. A former Poughkeepsie High School tackle, Jeff McConnell, meanwhile is tabbed among the top five sophomore prospects by the Yankee Conference co-champions.

Flotsam and Jetsam:

Harold Broskie's 288 solo in the 3-Man Classic was lost in the shuffle. How it was rolled still remains a mystery. What is not a mystery but reflects continuous negligence by bowling secretaries is the failure to alert the newspaper to such events. Did he roll 10 strikes from the start or did he open with a spare and then fire 10? And what pin or pins did he leave up in the first frame and on his last toss. How indifferent can league secretaries get about things like this. We'd have to say plenty judging from past experiences.

Buddy Rogers, the newly crowned champion of the National Wrestling Alliance meets the Great Scott at Riverview Field in Poughkeepsie on Sept. 6. Rogers dethroned Pat O'Connor before 39,000 fans at Chicago's Comiskey Park in June. So you didn't know there were that many suckers in Chicago. . . . The Poughkeepsie Police Athletic League and Ho-Bo nine of the New York-New Jersey League are joining in a salute to Billy (The Kid) Ostrom before Friday night's game with West Haverstraw at Riverview Field. Ostrom will be honored in recognition of his remarkable exploits on the baseball diamond over the past 25 years. If you saw Billy in his heyday with the pre-war Kingston Recreation, you know what we mean. The debate for and against Roger Maris breaking The Babe's record runs pretty much along age lines. The oldies who were around in Ruth's day almost solidly are rooting against Maris. Call it sentiment or nostalgia, or what you will. The younger fans are slightly irreverent about the whole thing.

Marine Extractions:

Been saying this whopper for a few days. Seems a boatload of local dentists visited the Jersey coast last week and hauled in more than 500 pounds of bluefish, with the fish ranging between 7 and 8 pounds each. The historic haul was made from "The Vivian" bound for the Atlantic blue off Brielle, N. J., and took place during three hectic hours pock marked by heavy gases and storms. Members of the intrepid party who took fish "this big" were Dr. Martin E. Kantor, Dr. Walter Meyer, Dr. Murray Fletcher, Dr. Harold Newman, Melvin Mones and Sherman Kent, who relayed the startling statistics to the press. It was the biggest extraction from the sea since they took Jonah from the belly of the whale.

Chips and Putts:

Buzzy Costello relates that tournament officials at the International Jaycee tournament checked golf ball specifications rigidly before the competition started. Among the brands that got the heave-ho for one reason or another were: McGregor DX Tourney, Black Titlist 100, Sweet Shots, Electras and some of the Ben Hogan 95's Plus. Some balls in the last category were acceptable as of Aug. 13 with $14.947. Others in five figures were: Louise Suggs, $11,896; Betsy Rawls, $11,405; and Mary Lena Faulk, $10,689. Miss Wright and Louise Suggs are tied in scoring average with 73.83 strokes a round. . . . Talk about tough courses, a fellow in Somerville, N. J., complained to the Park Commission that Green Knolls was too tough. Said he knocked half a dozen balls into the reservoir trying to get out of a bunker, than threw three clubs in after them. The commission was properly compassionate. Three department employees, by skin diving an hour, recovered the clubs.

Play Begins Today At Forsyth Courts

With championships wide open in every division, one of the largest turnouts ever is expected for the Ulster County tennis tournament which gets under way today at 5:30 o'clock at the Forsyth Park courts.

By September 9, it is hoped that champions will be crowned in men's singles and doubles, women's singles and a new division, mixed doubles.

Mrs. "Clem" Shute of Woodstock is defending her title in the women's singles division and will be hard to dislodge. The men's singles class is wide open, as Marty Kaye, the champion, is in the Army, and George Baron, the 1960 runnerup, has retired reluctantly from competitive tennis.

The tournament is expected to attract players from New Paltz to Hudson and matches are scheduled every evening and during the day on weekends at Forsyth Park. The public is invited to watch the matches.

The schedule for the first two days, starting daily at 5:30 p. m., follows:

(Today)
Tom Conway vs. Joe Galinato
Don Kruszenski vs. Phil Faloutico
Chet Fox vs. Bob Nowakowski
Tom DeWitt vs. Pete Roberts
(Thursday)
Joe Heusi vs. Herb DeKay
Bob Dittus vs. Richard Hessdorfer
Jim Perish vs. Don Bunk
Deke Parmelee vs. Billy Boyd

Ralston Draws Net Suspension

Associated Press Sports Writer
FOREST HILLS, N.Y. (AP) — Dennis Ralston, one of the main hopes to bring the elusive Davis Cup back to the United States, was back in the United States Lawn Tennis Association's doghouse today.

And there appeared to be a division of opinion on just how long he'll stay in the kennel.

The 19-year-old Bakersfield, Calif., ace, Tuesday was suspended by the USLTA for "bad conduct." The immediate result was that he became ineligible for the national championships starting here on Friday.

George Barnes, president of the USLTA, issued a formal statement pinpointing Ralston's antics in the American Zone final against Mexico in Cleveland two weeks ago as the primary cause of the suspension. Ralston already had been placed on a year's probation for acting up in Australia last year.

Significantly, however, Barnes did not place any time limit on the suspension. This led some observers to believe that when Ralston is hauled in for a full hearing on Sept. 8, his banishment from the nationals may be considered sufficient punishment.

"After all," said one top official, "getting to the challenge round means about $25,000 to the USLTA. If Ralston is needed to help us get there, I can't see them making the suspension stick."

Barnes' statement did not mention the specific violations charged to Ralston, the nation's No. 3 ranked player.

Batavia Slugger Raps.
His 35th Home Run

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
Batavia's Art Blunt rocketed his 35th homer Tuesday night to move one behind teammate Bob Sanchez in their duel for the New York-Penn League home run crown.

Manager Gene Baker, the former National League infielder, topped Blunt with two round-trippers as the Pirates blanked Geneva, 1-0, on a one-hitter by Bob Slezak in the opener of their doubleheader. Geneva took the nightcap, 5-4, on two homers by Greg Nash.

Elmira beat Olean, 1-0, Erie rapped Wellsville, 10-3 and Jamestown shaded Auburn, 4-3.

Pascual Blanks Yankees, 3-0; Cincinnati Keeps NL Margin

Detroit Is Beaten By Chisox, 4-3; M-M Boys Blanketed

By ED WILKS

Associated Press Sports Writer
Right-hander Camilo Pascual gained his 12th victory and sixth shutout by checking New York on four singles as Minnesota beat the American League leading Yankees 3-0 Tuesday night.

It was only the third victory over New York in 16 games for the Twins—and all three have been shutouts, two by Pascual. He tied Baltimore's Steve Barber for the major league shutout lead with this one and replaced Yankee Whitey Ford as the AL strikeout leader by fanning nine, three times putting a called third strike past Mickey Mantle.

Retain Lead
Despite the defeat, the Yankees retained a 1½-game edge over Detroit as the Chicago White Sox ended the second place Tigers' winning streak at five, 4-3. The Los Angeles Angels swept a pair of 6-5 decisions from Baltimore, taking the second in 11 innings.

Pascual, who became a first-time poppa earlier in the day, put away his fifth career shutout over the Yankees with a flourish. He struck out Bobby Richardson and Tony Kubek in the ninth, but Roger Maris was safe on a two-base error. Pascual then fanned Mantle for the final out. That extended his shutout streak through 20 innings and gave him 179 strikeouts.

Mantle was 1-for-4 and his 46-home run total leaves him just one game ahead of Babe Ruth's record 60 pace in 1927. Maris, 0-for-3, is eight games ahead of Ruth with his 31.

Ralph Terry (11-2) was the loser, after winning six in a row. An unearned run in the third, on Lenny Green's single, and error and Billy Martin's sacrifice fly, ended Terry's shutout string at 24 1-3 innings. Earl Battey's two-run double wrapped it up in the sixth.

Boot Game Away
The Tigers, who had won 10 of 11, blew a 2-0 lead and then boot away the game behind Frank Lary (19-7) when the White Sox broke a 3-3 tie in the seventh on a single by winning right-hander Ray Herbert (9-12) and two errors. The telling error was by Chico Fernandez, who had batted in two Detroit runs. Rocky Colavito of the Tigers went without an RBI for the first time in 10 games, failing one shy of the AL record.

Jim Gentile belted his 41st and 42nd home runs for the Orioles in the opener, but the Angels took it on a squeeze bunt by winner Ryne Duren (6-11) in the sixth inning. Home runs by Joe Koppe and Steve Bilko then brought the Angels from behind in the 11th inning of the second game, and gave the victory to Eli Grba (8-11) in relief. Barber (15-10) and Billy Hoelt (4-4) were the losing pitchers.

The Indians came from behind at Washington with six runs in the seventh, five unearned. Bob Allen (3-9) was the winner, and Mike Garcia (9-1) the loser, both in relief.

The Red Sox also won with a six-run rally, overhauling the A's and beating Ed Rakow (2-6) on Frank Malzone's two-out, two-run single in the ninth. Chet Nichols (2-2) was the winner in relief.

Two Hurlers Stop Pittsburgh, 3-0; Dodgers Top Cubs

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Southpaw Jim O'Toole and reliever Jim Maloney combined for Cincinnati's 10th shutout victory of the season, tops in the National League, as the Reds beat Pittsburgh 3-0 Tuesday night and retained a 3½-game lead over Los Angeles.

The second-place Dodgers defeated the Chicago Cubs 2-1 behind the two-hit pitching of Sandy Koufax.

Move to Third
Milwaukee replaced San Francisco in third place, seven games behind, by beating the Giants 7-6 in 13 innings on Ed Mathews' home run. St. Louis made it eight in a row with a 5-4 victory at Philadelphia in the opener of a two-night pair, but the Phils took the nightcap 4-3.

The Reds won their third in a row with a sixth-inning run at Pittsburgh on singles by Vada Pinson, Jerry Lynch and Gordy Coleman off right-hander Bob Friend (12-17).

Maloney nailed it for O'Toole (14-9), who gave up all of the Cubs' six hits, by striking out pinch-hitter Rocky Nelson with the bases loaded in the ninth.

Near No-Hitter
Koufax (15-9), who leads NL pitchers in low-hit games with a pair of three-hit performances, held the Cubs hitless for 6 2-3 innings for the second time this season. Sandy struck out 12, for a season total of 212, tops in the majors.

The Dodgers scored the winning run in the top of the seventh on a walk, sacrifice and Frank Howard's single off Don Cardwell (11-12).

Mathews' 25th home run came with one out in the bottom of the 13th for the Braves—their only hit against loser Dick LeMay (2-5) in his five innings of relief.

Johnson Starts a Vacation After Beating Eddie Cotton

Armstrong's Get Win, 4-0

Hobie Armstrong swatted a triple and home run and Billy Costello hurled a three-hitter as Armstrong's Bar whipped Subway, 4-0, in a City Softball League game last evening.

The winners had five hits off the slants of Bullet Bob Lasher with Armstrong and Joe Lawson showing the way.

SEATTLE (AP) — Harold Johnson, still the world lightweight boxing champion after 15 bruising rounds against Eddie Cotton, started a two-month vacation today by visiting the naval base where he fought his first pro fight in 1943 while a United States sailor.

Johnson, the Philadelphia boxing master, retained his NBA title Tuesday night by a split decision over Cotton, a Seattle tool and die maker whose long reach troubled the champion throughout the bout.

It was Johnson's second successful defense of the crown he won earlier this year by knocking out Jess Bowdry. It was his fourth fight in seven months and it brought him the greatest purse, a check for $20,000, in his 18 years of boxing.

That combination decided Johnson, who weighed 173 to the challenger's 170, to take a vacation. He started his ring career at nearby Bremerton, Wash., early in World War II.

No Knockdowns There were no knockdowns in the bout that received neither radio nor television treatment and drew 4,004 spectators to Seattle's Pacific Coast League baseball park. Receipts were estimated at $32,000.

"He's one of the smartest boxers I've ever met," said Johnson of Cotton, who was rated No. 4 among the contenders after whipping Johnny Halafih and Mike Holt in New Zealand after 13 years of obscurity in the Seattle area.

"I'd like to meet Johnson again," murmured Cotton as his handlers held ice packs to his eyes in the dressing room. "It would be another good fight."

At the end of Judge Norman Kunde and referee James Rondeau had it 147-145 for Johnson, while Judge Sam Heller voted for Cotton, 148-144. The AP card favored Johnson, 148-143.

Tenpin Notices Central Rec Women The organizational meeting of the Central Rec Women's League will be held Thursday, Aug. 31, at 7 p. m. at Sangi's Bowlero on Cedar Street. All team captains and members are urged to attend.

Two of Woodstock Country Club's top names — pro Jim Hutchins and Mrs. A. J. (Wiggie) de Lisio — have been selected to play in a foursome with Gene Sarazen on Labor Day at the village links.

The fourth player in the group will be announced later pending results of the club championships in Woodstock.

The appearance of the all-time golfing great, who now lives in nearby Germantown, is sponsored jointly by St. John's Roman Catholic Parish of West Hurley and Woodstock and St. Ann's Church of Germantown.

The Rev. Richard Stewart, pastor of St. John's is chairman for the exhibition.

The public has been invited to the 18-hole exhibition. Proceeds of the match will be shared equally by the two parishes.

Distinguished Record Mrs. de Lisio brings a distinguished record to the exhibition. She did not defend her Woodstock Country Club title this year, but had won for the past six years. She recently captured her third consecutive Ulster County championship and won all the invitations in the area — Woodstock, Wiltwyck, Twalfs-kill, Shawangunk, Rip Van Winkle and Stamford. In Florida, she has been champion of the Sunset Country Club. During the recent Northeastern PGA Pro-Lady tournament at Wiltwyck, she tied the women's record with a 78.

Hutchins, now one of the veteran members of the Northeastern PGA rose from the caddy ranks to the post of professional at Woodstock. He served as assistant to the late Warren Townley and succeeded Townley on the latter's death.

Gov. Clinton Cleaners won the championship in the Ferraro BYA Summer League with a 34-14 record. Langer's Pharmacy was second with 29½-18½.

Individual leaders were Pat Tiano, 147.31 average; Gayle Keator, 543 triple; Helen VanKeuren, 212 single and Phyllis Alecca, most improved bowler with a gain of 19 pins.

Officers for the 1962 season are Gayle Keator, president; Sally Myers, vice president; Helen VanKeuren, secretary; Mary McGowan, treasurer and Joan Seltera, sergeant-at-arms.

NOT JUST A BUY, BUT A WONDERFUL INVESTMENT: MERCEDES-BENZ

A Mercedes-Benz repays its owner over the years in a variety of ways. It's an investment in driving pleasure because of its advanced engineering. You have swing axles, turbo-finned brake drums, overhead camshaft engines (some models have fuel injection) and many other marvelous features. It's an investment in pride that no car can duplicate. Imagine yourself motoring behind the world-famous silver three-pointed star... seated on the most luxurious of seats. And naturally where money is concerned, Mercedes-Benz is a wise investment. There's a large range of Mercedes-Benz cars: sedans, sports cars, convertibles and limousines. See us, today! European delivery at overseas prices can be arranged.

Ralph Houk Raves About Pascual

MINNEAPOLIS-ST. PAUL (AP) (AP)—"What can I say? He just looked terrific."

That was the reaction of Ralph Houk, New York Yankee manager, after Minnesota and Camilo Pascual had blanked the American League leaders 3-0 Tuesday night.

The Yankees still stayed 1½ games in front of second-place Detroit, 4½ losers to the Chicago White Sox.

"I don't see how he can have such a record (12-13)," said the quiet spoken Yankee skipper. "He certainly looked like a better pitcher than that tonight."

It turned out to be quite a day for Pascual and the Twins.

The Cuban curve-baller began the day by rising at midnight to take his wife to the hospital where she gave birth four hours later to their first child — an 8-pound, 7-ounce boy.

"This was the best present I could have given her," said Pascual, who held the New York home run duo of Mickey Mantle and Roger Maris to a single between them, a line shot by Mantle in the fifth inning.

He wound up his four-hit performance by striking out the side in the ninth, getting Mantle for the third time on a called third strike to end the game. He had nine strikeouts in posting his sixth shutout this season.

"I got Mantle all three times on a curve ball," said Pascual. "The first two I broke over the outside corner and the last one right across the middle. I didn't pitch any special way to either Mantle or Maris."

Split Season On Ducks, Coots

Albert G. Hall, Chief of the Bureau of Game in the State Conservation Department, announced today that there will be a 36-day split gunning season on ducks and coots in upstate New York this year, running Oct. 13-Nov. 5 and Dec. 19-30.

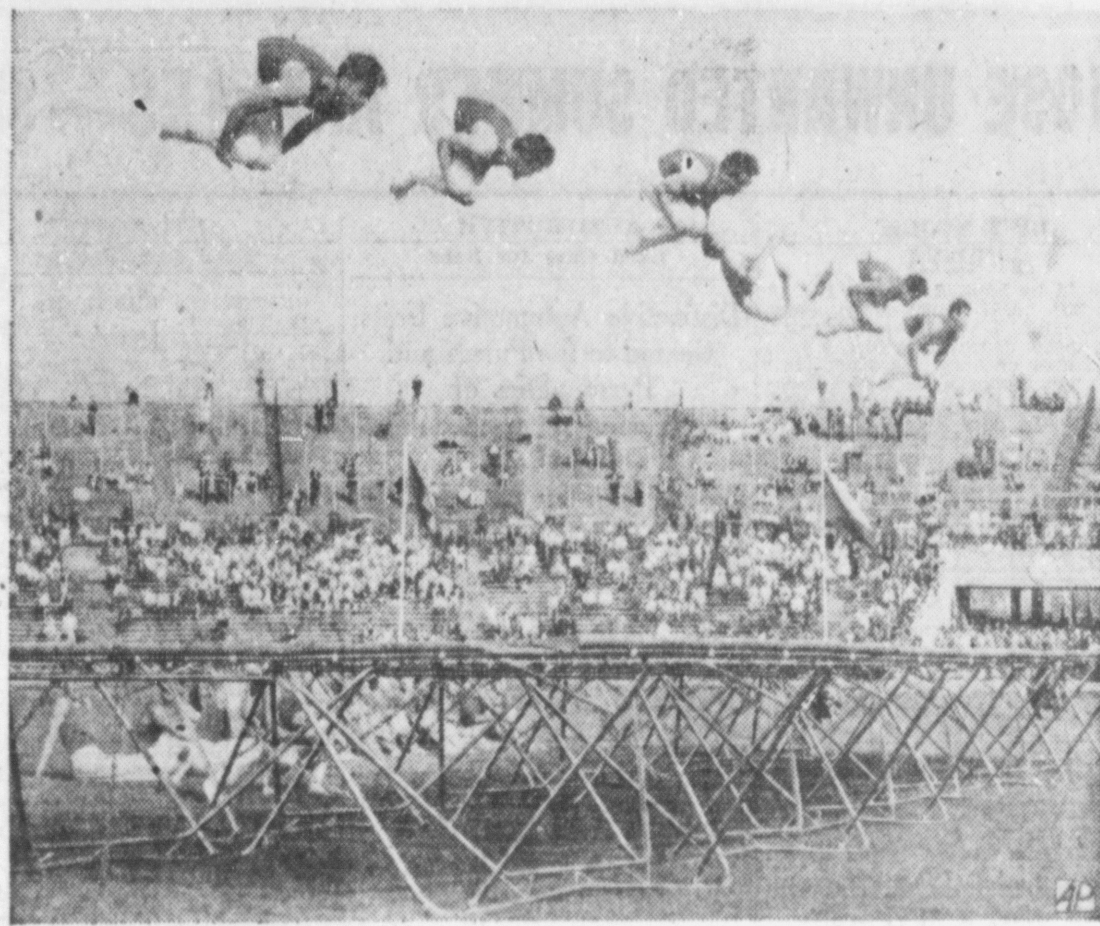

A straight 40-day season on ducks and coots, Nov. 21-Dec. 30, is scheduled for Long Island and that portion of Westchester County of the Hutchinson River Parkway.

During the previous two years, there was a straight season on waterfowl throughout the entire State.

"After conferring with sportsmen," Hall said, "we feel that a split season in Upstate New York will benefit the greatest number of duck hunters, even though it reduces the total number of hunting days by ten per cent."

The goose and brant season will be 60 days straight, Oct. 13-Dec. 11 in Upstate New York and Oct. 21-Dec. 19 on Long Island. The daily bag limit on geese will be two with a possession limit of four, with a daily bag and possession limit of ten and brant. As usual, snow geese will be on the protected list, Mr. Hall said.

World's richest and most productive fishing grounds are in the northern hemisphere, according to the Encyclopedia Britannica.

Denny Lyons Is Golf Medalist

ROCHESTER, N.Y. (AP)—Denny Lyons, 17-year-old son of Jamestown professional Toby Lyons, will go to the U.S. Amateur Golf Tournament as a district medalist.

Young Lyons won a sudden-death playoff on the 37th hole Tuesday after he and three others of a 27-man qualifier field tied with six-over-par 146 for 36 holes. The qualifier was held at the country club of Rochester.

Ray Allen Jr., of Rochester, birdied the 38th with a 4 for the other qualifying berth and his brother, Don Allen, took a birdie 3 on the 39th for the first alternate spot. Bob Eckis Jr., of Buffalo, was the other top alternate. Other alternates were Curt Siegel of Buffalo with a 147 and Dr. George Trainor of Rochester and Dr. Richard Powell of Buffalo with 149.

Magic Number Is 6 For Columbus Jets

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
A visitor to the Columbus Jets' dressing room a few days from now might be offered a glass of champagne—or he might have it poured over his head.

The Jets are that close to winning the pennant in the International League. They reduced the "magic number" to six, as they blanked Richmond 2-0, Tuesday night behind winner Don Rowe and Diomedes Olivo. Any combination of six Columbus victories and—or losses involving Buffalo and Charleston, will wrap up the flag for the Jets.

In other I.L. games, second-place Buffalo kept the pressure on with its 12th triumph in its last 13 contests with a 3-1 victory over Syracuse. Rochester whitewashed Toronto 2-0, and Charleston trounced Jersey City, 9-1.

Kite flying always has been a national pastime of Chinese, East Indians, Koreans and Japanese, according to Encyclopedia Britannica.

Springfield Giants Grab Eastern Pennant

SPRINGFIELD, Mass. (AP)—The Springfield Giants, a bunch of hustle guys who took command from the start and never choked up, have put away their second Eastern League pennant in three years.

Springfield, with still six games to go, clinched the Class A EL pennant Tuesday night by defeating Johnstown 4-1 on Roger Sinner's three-hitter. Thus, the Giants replaced Williamsport as the champion.

Williamsport, fighting to finish second, took a doubleheader from Lancaster, 8-7 and 6-4, to hike its lead to 3½ games over third-place Binghamton which dropped an 8-7 contest to Reading.

Warm, Dry Air Due Six Days

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP)—Extended forecasts prepared by the U.S. Weather Bureau for the period from 7 p. m. today to 7 p. m. Monday:

Eastern New York—Warm and dry weather most of the period. Temperatures averaging several degrees above normal with no important day to day changes. Rainfall is expected to be quite light with some chance of scattered showers near the end of the period.

Western New York—A complex weather pattern suggests changeable weather. Temperatures are expected to average near normal. Warmer and more humid again tonight and Thursday. Thunderstorms developing, probably continuing Friday. Partial clearing and cooler is probable over the weekend. Another shower period is likely by Monday. One-half inch or more of rain is expected.

Temperature normals—Daytime highs 73-81; nighttime lows 33-60.

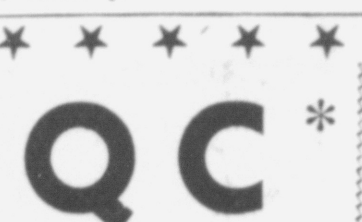

He'll Make Own Coffee

SAN JOSE, Calif. (AP)—Mrs. Stanley Hardman, 35, was granted a divorce after complaining that her police sergeant husband bawled her out if she didn't bring him coffee right away when he rang a bell.

Alice Hardman said the sergeant kept the bell at the head of his bed.

Judge W. W. Jaoka awarded her the family house, $1 a month alimony and $50 a month each for three children.

Sgt. Hardman was awarded one frying pan, one saucepan and the coffee pot.

Patient Slays Doctor's Wife

NEW YORK (AP) — A pretty young school teacher, convinced that a psychiatrist was telling everyone of her irresistible urge to scratch her face, was charged today with shooting his attractive wife to death.

The victim, Mrs. Paule A. Laverne, 27, was shot twice Tuesday as she clutched her 2-year-old daughter in the lobby of a fashionable Fifth Avenue apartment house. Her two sons, aged 4 and 6, screamed while the family dog—a Great Dane—ran away in fear.

Dies Hour Later

Mrs. Laverne, who recently completed her internship as a physician, died an hour later at Mount Sinai Hospital, next door.

Almost at the moment the woman died, Ann (Mitzi) Kiernan, 26, walked into a police station and announced: "I just shot somebody."

Miss Kiernan, of Mountain Lakes, N.J., until recently a high school teacher, had telephoned the victim's husband, Dr. Albert A. Laverne, earlier in the day demanding an appointment. She had been his patient three years ago and at one time was in a class he taught at Fordham University.

The prominent physician said he told her that his heavy schedule made it impossible to see her immediately. He said she became so angry that he telephoned his wife and warned her not to see the woman if she came to the apartment.

Police said Miss Kiernan went to the apartment house thinking that Dr. Laverne's office was there. Told he was not in, she waited in the lobby.

Demands Talk Stop

About two hours later, Mrs. Laverne returned from a walk with her three children and the dog. An elevator operator pointed her out, and Miss Kiernan asked her to sit down beside her.

As the two talked, Miss Kiernan demanded that Mrs. Laverne stop her husband from talking about her affliction, police said. Then she produced a .32-caliber pistol.

Mrs. Laverne ran to her children and was just lifting her daughter from a stroller when the first shot struck her in the chest.

Mrs. Laverne the child dropping from her arms, half turned toward her assailant when the second shot struck her. A third shot went wild, and Miss Kiernan fled.

Acted on Impulse

"I didn't have any intention of shooting the doctor's wife," Miss Kiernan said when she turned herself in to police a half hour later. "I acted on impulse. I'm sorry."

Laverne, former senior psychiatrist at Bellevue Hospital, gained prominence as an expert witness at a number of murder trials.

Miss Kiernan had taught English and history recently at Bernard's High School in Bernardsville, N.J.

Police said she met Dr. Laverne in 1958 when she took a special course taught by him at Fordham. She had graduated from St. Lawrence University in Canton, N.Y., five years ago.

There was no explanation as to why she had come to believe the psychiatrist was telling others of her trouble.

SHOKAN NEWS

SHOKAN — Paul Harnett, Manhattan, is spending part of his vacation with his friend, Paul Richard, in the village center.

Greene County people in town Saturday included Mr. and Mrs. Melton Northrup and Mrs. Northrup's sister, Mrs. Harold Mallory, all of East Jewett.

The two women are sisters of Mrs. Percy Cook of Olive Bridge.

Charles Jackson, one-time Shokan boy, reportedly has been initiated into Sigma Phi Delta, international fraternity for engineering students. Charles and his wife, the former Carol Barringer of Samsonville, make their home at Angola, Ind., where he is taking an electrical engineering course at Tri-State College.

Charles H. Clough of Shandaken village was a Shokan caller Sunday.

Other weekend callers here included Mrs. K. Zalke of Liberty and Mrs. A. Gath, Rye. An all-day meeting with noon-time refreshments was planned for Aug. 27 at the Old School Baptist meetinghouse in Halcottville. Elder William D. Griffin, pastor of the Welsh Tract O.E.B. Church in the State of Delaware, who has a number of friends in Shokan was scheduled to conduct the services.

Daniel Regan and family, formerly of Monticello, are making their home on the Atwood-Vly Road.

William A. Osterhout is reported to have resigned as chairman of the Olive Democratic Club.

Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence Stowe have returned to their home in the Ruckert apartments after having spent part of the summer with Mrs. Stowe's parents in Missouri.

Town Assessor Homer Markle, a hospital patient for the past several weeks, is reported much improved in condition.

Betty Elefant, Route 28, Ashokan, is visiting relatives in California.

Mr. and Mrs. William Shirin of Montrose near Peekskill, spent Saturday with Mrs. Shir-in's mother, Elizabeth Knickerbocker, in the village center. The young man, formerly with Reader's Digest at Yorktown Heights, is now connected with the Chemical Bank in New York.

Mrs. John Mack and daughters, Irvington, spent last week with Mrs. Mack's mother, Mrs. M. Robeson.

Margaretville Central school has a new supervising principal to succeed Prof. Elton F. Shaver who resigned to take a post with the state education department.

Erle A. Smith, who was one of 52 applicants for the position, has been supervising principal at Springfield, Otsego County central school two years; he received his MA from Teachers College at Columbia University and his Bachelor of Science degree at Ithaca College.

Commander Eugene Nicholas and Delegate Charles Wood, veterans of Wars 2 and 1 represented Olive Legion Post 1627 at the state convention in Albany.

Meyner Will Seek Help From Conn. In Retaining TV

TRENTON, N.J. (AP) — Gov. Robert B. Meyner will court Connecticut support in his battle to retain New Jersey control of the state's only television station.

Meyner meets with Gov. Rockefeller of New York and Gov. John N. Dempsey of Connecticut today in Rockefeller's New York office.

He told a news conference Tuesday it would also be to Connecticut's advantage to oppose conversion of WNTA-TV (Channel 13) into a New York-based educational outlet.

Meyner said he expected that in a year or so the educational television group would be asking New Jersey and Connecticut for subsidies to continue the operation.

Meyner said it would be to Connecticut's advantage to keep educational television out of the hands of the New York Board of Regents, which he says is the controlling group in the WNTA proposal.

To Feature Blue Angels

WEST SPRINGFIELD, Mass. — In an appearance marking the 50th anniversary of naval aviation, the exciting Blue Angels—the Navy's crack precision-flight demonstration team—will perform at the Eastern States Exposition Monday and Tuesday, Sept. 18 and 19, at noon. The Blue Angels will give a low altitude demonstration of aerial maneuvers as they put their Grumman F11F "Tigers" through unusual rolls, loops and turns. Their formations are held tightly together with only a five-foot separation between the wings during all maneuvers, and at speeds ranging from 500 miles per hour down to just above stalling speeds of 170 miles per hour.

Nixon Joins Other GOPers Opposing Treasury for Aid

By JACK BELL

WASHINGTON (AP) — Republican leaders lined up in top-rank opposition today to Treasury borrowing to finance foreign aid development loans.

Former Vice President Richard M. Nixon, the party's 1960 presidential nominee, sent word to former Senate colleagues he favors a long-range program, financed through annual appropriations by Congress.

To Meet Ike Later

Nixon's views were made known in advance of a breakfast meeting with a group of GOP senators. He planned to confer with former President Dwight D. Eisenhower later in the day.

This put Nixon in line with Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller of New York and Sen. Barry Goldwater, R-Ariz., as opposed to the kind of financing by Treasury borrowing that President Kennedy had sought.

A Senate-House conference committee, considering the foreign aid bill, swung to the Republican viewpoint Tuesday night with a compromise on a $7.2-billion five-year program, financed through yearly congressional appropriations. Kennedy originally asked $8.8 billion for a five-year program to be financed through Treasury borrowing.

The compromise still must go before the Senate and House, where demands could be made for further changes.

10 Out on Limb

The top-rank GOP opposition to Treasury borrowing left 10 Republican senators hanging on a political limb on which they had climbed to support the Kennedy program.

The 10 voted against a Senate amendment by Sen. Harry F. Byrd, D-Va., to set up a five-year program with annual congressional appropriations.

They were Sens. J. Caleb Boggs of Delaware, Prescott Bush of Connecticut, Clifford P. Case of New Jersey, John Sherman Cooper and Thurston B. Morton of Kentucky, Jacob K. Javits and Kenneth B. Keating of New York, Winston L. Prouty of Vermont, Leverett Saltonstall of Massachusetts and Hugh Scott of Pennsylvania.

More Consumed

Trend Is Noted From Fresh to Processed Fruit

WASHINGTON (AP) —The Agriculture Department reports that a broad consumer trend toward foods already processed and ready or nearly ready for use includes fruits. There is a definite shift, it says, from fresh to processed fruits.

Nevertheless, this shift is being accompanied, it says, by an increase in the volume of fruits consumed. Total consumption is running at an annual average of about 200 pounds per person.

A report says about 42 per cent is citrus and the rest non-citrus.

Total production of deciduous fruits this year is now expected to be about 7 per cent larger than in 1960 and 8 per cent above the 1959-60 average. Crops of apples, sweet cherries, sour cherries, and Pacific Coast peaches are much larger than last year, while those of peaches, pears, plums, grapes and strawberries are slightly to moderately larger.

The department expects exports of apples and pears to be larger this year than last.

State Campsites Will Remain Open Until December 1

Victor Glider, chief of the Bureau of Chief Recreation in the State Conservation Department, announced today that four public campsites in the Catskills and 14 in the Adirondacks will remain open throughout the autumn until the close of the deer season December 5.

Hunters using the campsites may possess firearms on these areas during the hunting season, but Department regulations prohibit the discharge of firearms on campsite grounds at any time, Glider said.

Where a caretaker is on duty, a camping permit must be obtained and the usual camping and day-use service charges paid. There will be no fees at campsites where caretakers are not on duty, although hunters are advised to notify the local forest ranger before camping.

The campsites scheduled to remain open are:

Catskills—Beaverkill, Sullivan county; Devils Tombstone and North Lake, Greene county and Woodland Valley, Ulster county. Adirondacks—Cranberry Lake, St. Lawrence county; Eagle Point, Warren county; Eighth Lake, Lake Durant, Little Sand Point, Hamilton county. Other campsites in the Adirondacks that will be open with caretakers on duty throughout the hunting season include Forked Lake, Lewey Lake and Moffitt Beach in Hamilton county.

Others in the Adirondacks will include Eagle Point, Warren County; Fish Creek Ponds, and Rollins Pond, Franklin county; Wilmington Notch, Essex county; with caretaker on duty until Oct. 1; Sharp Bridge, Essex county; Sacandaga in Hamilton county and Meacham Lake, Franklin county.

The Cumberland Bay public campsite (Clinton) will be open with a caretaker until Oct. 1 but closed thereafter. All other campsites close Sept. 10.

Senate Leaders Are Hopeful of Extension of CR

WASHINGTON (AP) — Senate leaders hoped today to win a two-year extension of the Civil Rights Commission and then cut short any moves for passage of other civil rights measures.

Under an unanimous consent agreement reached Tuesday, the Senate is to vote in midafternoon on a motion to suspend its rules to permit the extension bill to be looked to a $761 million appropriation measure for the State and Justice departments.

Suspension of the rule barring legislation in an appropriation bill takes a two-thirds majority of the senators present and voting.

The move, opposed by Southern foes of the commission, was jointly sponsored by Democratic Leader Mike Mansfield of Montana and Republican Leader Everett M. Dirksen of Illinois.

Mansfield served notice he would move to table and thus kill attempts to suspend the rules for consideration of other civil rights measures bitterly opposed by Southern senators.

A tabling motion is not debatable and thus can force an issue to a quick vote.

The Kennedy administration has not asked Congress for civil rights legislation at this session other than an extension of the commission, which will expire Nov. 9.

The commission was created in 1957 to investigate violations of civil rights, particularly denials of voting rights, and was extended for two years in 1959 by a rider to an appropriation bill.
